

Louise and 'Bud' Freed; Romance Over, She Says

SANTA ANA, Cal., Oct. 5.—(UP)—Beulah Louise Overell, 18, and George (Bud) Gollum, 21, were acquitted Sunday of the time-bomb murder of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Overell and, minutes after the verdict, the pudgy heiress declared she would not marry her erstwhile sweetheart even though they were free.

The crowd, overflowing the tense courtroom, cheered wildly when the Clerk of the Court read the words, "not guilty," which meant that Beulah and Bud were absolved of the State charge that they murdered the girl's wealthy parents aboard their yacht because the Overells had opposed their daughter's marriage.

Dodgers Win, 8 to 6, Square Series at 3-3

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 5.—(NANA)—In one of the wildest double counterattacks any World Series has ever known the Dodgers fought their way Sunday to a seventh and final game for the 1947 championship on Monday afternoon.

In the sixth game of the series, before a record World Series crowd of 74,065, the Dodgers beat the Yankees, 8 to 6, just as a deep twilight was settling on the field. Darkness was crowding in with a rush as Hugh Casey threw out "Snuffy" Stirnweiss to end the ninth inning with two Yankees on base.

The Dodgers opened up with a savage assault on Allie Reynolds, belting him for four runs in the first two innings. They scratched, clawed and fought their way to a seemingly killing lead. This attack was led by Stanky, Reese and Robinson, who drove Reynolds into the soothing and cooling showers.

Then the Yankees launched a counterattack of their own. They tore and ripped into little Vic Lombardi and Ralph Branca to tie the score. Trailing 4 to 0, in the third, Lollar doubled, Stirnweiss was safe on Jorgensen's error, and Henrich singled as Stirnweiss was thrown out at third. Then Lindell, DiMaggio, Johnson and Pinch Hitter Bobby Brown singled. Six hits and four runs! But you haven't heard anything yet. The drama was just building up.

The Yankees moved ahead in the fifth, off Branca, to take the lead, 5 to 4. And then the big crash arrived in the Dodgers' sixth.

The brilliant Joe Page was now pitching for the Yankees. The Dodger candle, it seemed, was barely smoking in the wind. But Edwards singled and Furillo—scoring a sacrifice—doubled. Bragan, batting for Branca, doubled, and here Page left the scene. Then Reese singled and the Dodgers were now leading, 8 to 5. Page.

RED-HAIRED BUDAPEST BEAUTY TELLS OF PHONE CALLS

Death Threats Follow Lone-Wolf Gem Theft

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(INS)—Two death threats were received Sunday by Mrs. Sari Gabor Hilton, who lost a fortune in gems to a well-dressed "lone wolf" bandit in her Fifth Avenue penthouse apartment Sunday.

The Budapest beauty queen, who was "Miss Hungary of 1936," said that she had received two telephone calls threatening her with death if she discussed the case. She added:

"I can't say much about it as I fear for my life. I have told the police about the calls and I think they came from the same man. The caller told me to keep my mouth shut or 'they would kill me.'"

Mrs. Hilton, 30-year-old divorced wife of multimillionaire hotel man Conrad Hilton, said the bandit who invaded her apartment through a ruse had taken some 30 pieces of jewelry which she valued at $300,000.

She said, however, that to replace this jewelry "in the face of inflated prices and higher taxes" it would exceed $500,000. She said

"Gosh, I'm going home," were the first words of Miss Overell, visibly shaking with relief as the verdict was read.

Gollum smiled broadly and his attorneys grouped around to congratulate him. But the center of attention was the girl.

"Are you going to marry Bud," Miss Overell was asked.

"No soap," she replied.

"Does that mean you are not going to marry him?"

"No, I'm not going to marry Bud."

Their once torrid romance had cooled during the trial when erotic love letters sent by Gollum from his cell to Beulah were read by the jury. Since then, the girl had been noticeably cool. Bud hinted Sunday that he might try to win her back, but he was concerned most with the present.

"Time will tell," he said, when asked again and again if he was going to marry Miss Overell.

Gollum told of plans for a trip before going back to pre-medical

James J. (Jim) Page, former manager of the Henry Grady Hotel and staunch supporter of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge, was seriously injured early Sunday in an automobile accident near Louisville, as a series of disastrous accidents over the State left six persons dead and 23 injured.

Another Georgian was killed, and two were injured in an accident in Tennessee.

Page was admitted to the Louisville Hospital with a possible skull fracture, a fractured shoulder and severe shock from loss of blood. Trooper J. T. Mahaffey, of the Swainsboro State Patrol District, reported. He was injured in a head-on collision on the Louisville-Tennille Road.

Mahaffey said Page was en route from Louisville to Tennille, where he has considerable farming interests, when his machine was struck head-on by an auto driven by Floyd Walden, a Negro mechanic from Louisville.

Walden was well over the center line on the left side of the road when his car struck the Atlanta, Mahaffey related. Page's vehicle was overturned and almost demolished.

Dozens of cotton samples in Page's car were strewn up and down the highway.

Meatless Days Urged by Truman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Truman Sunday night asked all Americans to pledge themselves not to eat meat on Tuesdays and to abstain from poultry or eggs on Thursdays.

Mr. Truman, in a broadcast from the White House, announced that the government could "demand of the grain exchanges" that they increase their down-payment requirements on grain to at least one-third.

Also, Charles Luckman, chairman of the President's Citizens Food Committee, announced that the purchase price to the State of Georgia at $675,000, would be in addition to the 50 percent curtailment of grain use already pledged by about 60 percent of the industry.

Mr. Truman in sounding the demand on the grain markets declared that the cost of living "must not be a football to be kicked about by gamblers in grain." If the grain exchanges refuse to make the margin change, "the government may find it necessary to limit the amount of trading," the President said.

As additional sacrifices to buttress his Aid-for-Europe campaign, launched formally with Sunday's speeches, Mr. Truman asked every family to "save a slice of bread every day" and asked public eating places to serve bread and butter only on request.

"The battle to save food in the United States is the battle to save our own prosperity and to save the free countries of western Europe. Our self-denial will serve us in good stead in the years to come," he said.

Mr. Truman's message was preceded by that of Luckman, who requested that meatless Tuesdays and eggless and poultryless Thursdays be "observed for the duration of this emergency."

"This same pledge will be secured from hotels, schools, restaurants, cafeterias, roadside diners, factory canteens, railroad dining cars—wherever America eats," Luckman said.

New International Fights 'Imperialism'

MOSCOW, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A new Communist International organization was announced Sunday to fight the Marshall Plan and "United States imperialism."

Communist leaders of nine countries formed the organization. It is the first such grouping to which the Russians have lent support since they declared the Comintern dead in 1943.

It is aimed at uniting the chief Communist strength in Europe. Pravda, the official Communist newspaper here, as well as Communist organs in other European capitals, said Communist leaders from the nine countries met "somewhere in Poland" last month, appraised the world as split into Russian and American orbits, and ordered an "Information Bureau" set up to coordinate activities.

The nine countries whose communists foregathered were Russia, France, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Russia sent two of its Politburo leaders, and it can be taken for granted that their report to the conference was the principal basis for a "statement" of 1,000 words announced Sunday.

In effect, the Communists served notice of their intention to wreck, if possible, the Marshall Plan for European aid as well as the Truman Doctrine on totalitarianism, and any form of what they called United States imperialism.

The "Information Bureau" is to be established in Premier Marshal Tito's capital, Belgrade. Its establishment appears certain to lead to an intensification of the fight on U. S. policy in Europe.

Pravda said a joint resolution adopted at the conference pictured the world as split into camps led by the Soviet Union and the United States. It hit out against what was called United States "expansionism" and "imperialist lackeys." It placed in the latter

Judge Signs Jekyll Condemnation; Sets Price To State at $675,000

Superior Court Judge Gordon Knox said in Hazelhurst Sunday he had signed a consent decree condemning Jekyll Island and setting the purchase price to the State of Georgia at $675,000.

Both the State and the owners of the fabulous retreat of millionaires have agreed to the decree. Judge Knox said the decree will be recorded in Glynn County Superior Court today.

The Judge said he had held up the signing of the decree so that he could be certain that the State was authorized to condemn the island. He took the case under advisement when attorneys for the State and the owners forestalled a hearing of the condemnation suit in Glynn Superior Court Wednesday by presenting the consent decree.

Advised of the Judge's action, Acting Gov. Thompson prepared to carry out plans for taking over the island.

Transfer to the State is expected to be completed sometime

REPORT FROM THE COUNTRY

'I Switched to Pasture and Cattle'

By RALPH MCGILL

SOUTH GEORGIA, Cottee County—We drove out to see Ostell Knight and admired, as we drove up, the old farm house with its fine lines which he and his wife have made into a very attractive home.

He and Grady Futch, the latter the subject of Friday's "Report From the Country," are good friends and rivals. Grady Futch believes in the Angus cattle and Ostell Knight favors the Polled Herefords.

Friends, knowing of this rivalry, often send word to one that, at long last, the "stubborn" man has given in and admitted the "other" type cattle is best, but doesn't want it known and to keep quiet about it.

The joke worked for a long time, but both now know that the race is on.

Ostell Knight started out renting land. He finally saved up $500, and made a down payment on the place he now owns. An insurance company had taken it over from a defeated farmer, one of several who had tackled the worn-out, abused land and failed.

Ostell Knight took to it an active and inquiring mind—which was open, not closed. When he looked at the fences that were down, the big gullies that were in the fields, and the buildings that swayed with each passing wind, he didn't see failure. He saw opportunity. Like his friend, Grady Futch, miles away, he went to work. All he knew was the old system, but he got information and he used it.

"I switched to hogs," he said, recalling the early tries. "They do fine for some, but for me they ate up all the profit. I had hogs boarding with me, so to speak. I was perishing to death, as they say, so I switched to pasture and cattle. I have always been a man crazy about cattle, especially the white-faced ones and especially the polled ones.

"In 1939, I got enough together to buy my first pured polled bull. I had fooled around some with range cattle. The best I ever got them up to was around 400 to 500 pounds. Now I get from 800 to 1,000 pounds and over. And I get that in months instead of years."

We went into the pasture and got the cattle out of the shade, and had a look at them. They were beautiful. I wouldn't have an Angus man know it for the world, but I am very much afraid the prettiest cattle picture in the world is made up of red and white cattle against the slope of a green pasture.

Ostell Knight has done as fine a job, and a similar one to that of his friend Futch. He took an old abandoned hill, on which the topsoil was all gone, and made it into 35 acres of fine pasture, which was standing up under drought.

He works 5,000 turpentine faces and raises

No Rain Today, Says Weatherman

For the seventeenth straight day, Atlantans need not bring their raincoats to town, the weatherman predicts for today. His forecast for Atlanta is partly cloudy with little change in temperature today and Tuesday.

The last time the weatherman could measure rainfall at the Airport was Sept. 20, when .01 inch fell. Since then, the most has been a sprinkle, known in official parlance as a trace. Today's temperature extremes will be 80 and 60 degrees. The high Tuesday will be 80 degrees.

'Community Property' Tax Revision Is Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Sen. McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, predicted Sunday that Congress will approve a tax revision bill early in the next session, including his "community property amendment."

The Arkansas Democrat told a reporter that Republican leaders had promised him their support for favorable action on this provision. It would allow husbands and wives to split incomes for tax purposes. This results in considerable savings in taxes upon medium and upper bracket incomes for married couples.

"I am going to urge Republican leaders to bring out a tax revision bill ahead of any tax reduction measure," McClellan said. "There is very little controversy about the revisions and we could pass that in a hurry."

At the present time couples in 12 states and Hawaii have the "community property" advantages. "I have talked with Treasury Secretary Snyder and his tax experts about this," McClellan said.

"The House Ways and Means Committee has unanimously approved it and I can't see how it can be refused now."

McClellan made a stiff Senate floor battle to have the community property amendment written into the two tax bills passed through the first session of the present Congress, but lost. Several Senate Republicans at that time pledged support later.

President Truman vetoed both Republican attempts to cut taxes and he was sustained first by the House and then by the Senate.

But Republicans already have served notice they will try again as soon as Congress meets.

McClellan said there is strong Senate support for two other tax changes:

1. Elimination of so-called "double taxation" upon the dividends of corporations.

2. Increase of the present $500 personal exemption to $600.

The Senator said that at present many corporations "must pay as high as 38 percent upon any profits from which dividends are paid and then the individual receiving the dividend is taxed on this again."

He recalled that the increase in personal exemptions to $600 lost by a narrow 43-47 margin in the Senate earlier this year.

Congressional tax experts say approval of the "community property" tax provision would reduce Government revenues by about $850,000,000, while the $800 exemption would lop off another $1,900,000,000.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Offers Economic Panacea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce suggested Sunday that one way to prevent depressions is to rely on vigorous business competition "to pass the benefits of progress on to labor and others as consumers."

It also said that "alternating booms and depressions would be mitigated by prevention of wage spirals."

Offering a series of proposals on how it felt business, labor and the Government could co-operate to keep the economic machine in high gear, the Chamber of Commerce declared:

"At times, selective downward adjustment of both prices and wages may be desirable. Demand conditions should be the guide."

The Chamber's ideas for business included:

If a substantial number of large industries maintain a fairly uniform rate of annual investment, including maintenance and replacement, "this in itself would help to place a cushion under depression."

When demand drops off for a product, "a careful examination of costs, prices and type of product may indicate possibilities of tapping new but lower levels of demand, thereby mitigating recession tendency."

"Credit policies should avoid undue expansion in any line."

"Wartime experience of many companies in making new products might help them avoid production cutbacks in event a depression should threaten."

Discussing labor's part toward making the economic machine tick, the report said:

"It is questionable whether wage increases should be granted as a result of collective bargaining demand except when the following conditions prevail: (a) Unemployed workers in the region and of the skills involved are less than perhaps 5 or 6 percent of those employed. (b) No large number of workers in other industries able to do the work and desirous of transferring to the plant in question at existing wages. The absence of such other workers is not due to any artificial barriers. (d) The wage increase is necessary to prevent a labor shortage."

As to the part the Government can play in averting the "boom and bust" pattern, the report said: "A sound fiscal policy must be designed to help maintain reasonably stable employment and currency values. Every effort must be made to balance expenditures with tax revenues consistent with these objectives."

High Court Set for Two Crucial Issues

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—The United States Supreme Court Monday opens its new term facing potentially explosive issues involving Negro housing and religious education in public schools.

The nine justices have agreed to rule for the first time on the validity of agreements made by white owners of real estate that they will not sell or lease property to Negroes.

Also up for a decision for the first time by the high tribunal is a question whether religious education classes in public schools should be banned as violative of the Constitution.

An Illinois mother who called herself a "nationalist or atheist" said such classes were an unconstitutional union of church and state.

Two Negro couples who purchased houses, Orsel McGhee and Minnie S. McGhee, in Detroit, and J. D. Shelley and Ethel Lee Shelley, in St. Louis, asked the Court to nullify property owners' agreements under which the couples were prevented from using the homes. They said others face the same situation in large cities from coast to coast.

Lower Courts in the past have held that such agreements are private matters which are not the acts of the state.

Attorneys for the Detroit and St. Louis Negroes asked the Supreme Court to declare that when state courts enforce such agreements the state becomes a party to the action and the enforcement becomes state acts. Such state acts, they assert, violate the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Some lawyers have commented that the legal situation now is about the same as in the famous Dred Scott decision before the War Between the States. They argue that an attempt is being made to solve a major part of a racial problem by judicial methods, rather than legislative.

Slum Elimination May Get Started November 1

Atlanta's five-year program to eliminate 40,000 slum and sub-standard dwelling units may get under way on Nov. 1. The early start, however, depends on City Council and available personnel. Inspection can get underway on November 1 if City Council today approves the recommendations of its Finance Committee and sufficient personnel to handle the inspection service can be obtained.

Lawrence A. James, Assistant City comptroller, reported Saturday that funds had been found to launch the inspections. A sub-committee from the Finance group has recommended that approximately $5,485 be provided to pay the salaries of the 10 inspectors and two clerks for the final two months of the year so that inspections can be started even before the five-year plan is launched Jan. 1.

James said City Building Inspector Marvin Harper has expressed some doubt concerning his ability to employ five new inspectors for his division immediately. He added that it is planned to add inspectors for the Health department only as inspectors become available for the Building division. This is because joint inspections are projected and one inspector from each of the Departments will compose an inspection team.

Finance sheet amendments slated for presentation at the busy session today provide approximately $65,000 in new allocations. In addition to the slum inspection fund, major items on the list include $20,000 to supplement food funds for city prisoners; $11,700 for widening of the North side of Hunter Street from Forsyth to the Spring Street viaduct; $3,000 for the Fire Department's repair account; $2,500 for repairs to the Municipal Auditorium; $5,000 to replenish a revolving fund for sewer repairs, and $5,000 for factual studies in the City's fight against a 33 1-3 percent raise in traction fares.

Other major matters facing Council action are:

1. A proposal by Councilman John T. Marler to restrict issuance of any new permits to sell beer and wine to the inner fire limits. The Police Committee Wednesday approved the Marler proposal and is expected to back it. Police Chief Jenkins told committee members it would make policing easier if beer and wine establishments are more concentrated in the downtown area.

2. An effort to eliminate residence requirements for future applicants to the police force. In the past applications have been received only from persons who have lived in Atlanta for at least two years. Of about 10 percent of those who have filed have survived the rigid tests for the force. Jenkins believes elimination of residence requirements would ease a manpower shortage and prepare the way for a drive for 25 new men he will seek so that all departmental members can be forced to attend the police training school.

3. Proposed award of a lateral sewer contract to the Ferguson Construction Company low bidder on 16 new projects, designed to eliminate a wartime accumulation of demands for new services.

4. An appeal by the Atlanta Board of Education for City water service at Bush Mountain and Armour Negro elementary schools, which now get water from wells. Tests recently showed both water sources are contaminated with B. coli bacteria and both wells have been chlorinated.

5. Request for bids for construction of a new South Boulevard underpass beneath the Georgia Railway. City Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson announced he is ready to ask that the bids be returned for opening at the Oct. 21 meeting of City Council.

6. A new ordinance which would bar the raising of hogs inside the City limits and place restrictions against keeping other animals and fowls.

7. Authorization for Harry B. Andrews, City Land Agent, to begin acquisition of property for the Street. The project has long been right-of-way for the West North regarded as a must in the effort Avenue Underpass beneath the to relieve congestion and speed up railroads southwest of Marietta the movement of vehicles.

Safety by an Act of Congress

"To provide a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money . . ."

The Federal Charter of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association provides that each member's account be permanently insured up to $5,000 by a wholly owned agency of the United States Government. Earnings on accounts are paid from the net earnings in forms of dividends semi-annually, after the association pays all expenses and sets aside reserves. Dividends are computed on a monthly basis—all funds received between the 1st and 10th of any month earn from the first of that month. In order to afford added protection for its members, the charter of the First Federal provides that each dividend date the association must transfer to proper reserve the amount equal to 5% of the net earnings of the association. Such transfers must continue to be made at each dividend date until the aggregate reserve of the association equals 10% of its outstanding capital. Accounts are non-assessable and are always worth 100 cents on the dollar. No withdrawal fee or other penalty may be charged by the association.

There are two types of accounts: (1) Savings accounts, which may be opened with any amount from $5.00 up and added to with any amount at any time. Additions and withdrawals are entered in a passbook. Dividends on this type of account are credited and compounded twice yearly. (2) Investment accounts are opened in amounts of $100.00 or multiples of that amount. Dividends are paid by check on this type of account, twice yearly, rather than being automatically added to the accounts as in the case of a savings account. The rate of return on both types of accounts is the same.

Accounts may be held by the following: One person alone; two persons, payable to either or survivor; two persons, payable only to both; one person, as trustee for another; two persons, as joint trustees for another; one person with power of attorney granted to another; a guardian or trustee, either a person or a corporation, for a minor or incompetent; an executor or administrator; a corporation, club, society, lodge, association, and a credit union.

We have a savings account for every purse and purpose. Like many others you may find it convenient to save by mail. You may also open an account by mail. The following coupon will bring full information about our Insured Savings and Investment Plan.—Adv.

FROM BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

Elizabeth Agrees To 'Obey'
In Forthcoming Ceremony

LONDON, Oct. 5—(P)—Princess Elizabeth will promise to "love, cherish and obey" Lt. Philip Mountbatten at her Nov. 20 wedding, Buckingham Palace announced Sunday night.

The Princess declined a change to skip the word "obey." It is omitted in an alternative marriage service used in some Church of England ceremonies but not recognized by Parliament.

The Palace said the form of solemnization of matrimony in the book of Common Prayer will be used.

The rest of the service will "follow the form used at the marriage of the King and Queen in 1923."

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Dean of Westminster will be the chief officiating clergymen at the Westminster Abbey ceremony. The Archbishop of York will read the address.

The wedding will bring to London the greatest array of royalty since the coronation of King George VI and his Queen more than 10 years ago.

An announcement from Stock-

WALNUTS CRACK
HIGH COST LINE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5—

(P)—The California Walnut Growers Association said nuts to high food prices Sunday.

It announced prices on the 1947 crop 21 percent lower than in 1946, or 39 to 47 cents a pound retail, compared with 49 to 55 cents last year.

Others who probably will attend, authoritative quarters say, are Princess Juliana of Holland and Prince Bernhard, Crown Prince Olaf and Princess Martha of Norway, Prince Charles of Belgium, and representatives of the Danish royal family. King Paul of the Hellenes, a cousin of Elizabeth's betrothed Philip Mountbatten, has been invited, but the Greek political situation may keep him away.

Of the Dominions' Prime Ministers, only Field Marshal Jan Smuts of South Africa has disclosed acceptance of an invitation. There is little doubt that the Premiers of Australia, New Zealand and Canada will be here, too.

The invitations to the wedding—some 1,500 in all—are being dispatched by the Lord Chamberlain's office in installments as received from the King. Nobody apart from the elect is permitted a glimpse of them.

By every reliable sign the honeymoon will be spent in Britain, probably at a manor lent by a close friend of the royal family, with the prospect of an overseas trip when the nation's economic troubles are less severe.

Police Thwart U. S. Efforts
To Get Royal Gown Design

LONDON, Oct. 5—(UP)—The British press charged Sunday that American fashion spies are descending on London to ferret out a preview of Elizabeth's top-secret wedding gown and presumably flood the U. S. market with copies even before the royal wedding.

The Sunday Pictorial reassured its readers, however, that British security has been equal to the occasion and that the spies have failed to obtain a peek so far. It added that a sketch of the gown would be worth a fortune because brides all over the United States would be able to buy copies within a week.

Norman Hartnell, the gergarous designer of the gown, secluded himself to avoid dropping an inadvertent syllable on the secret which only he and two or three trusted employees know in its entirety.

The gown is close enough to completion so that Hartnell was able to announce that his chief assistant would take it to Balmoral Castle in Scotland this week for the princess' first fitting. The route to be taken to Scotland by the assistant, of course, is another top secret.

ONCE GEORGIA'S CAPITOL—Here, on the site of the present Western Union Building, at Marietta and Forsyth Streets, stood the old Opera House that was built for H. I. Kimball by John Calvin Peck and used as the State Capitol from 1869 to 1889. A bronze tablet on the Western Union Building will mark this spot of historic interest as one of 114 such markers to be located throughout Atlanta. Thirty-five will be placed in the downtown area.

Pastor Urges U. S. Churches
To Unite in 'Organic' Merger

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT
Some 2,000 people of Atlanta and adjacent communities heard Dr. E. Stanley Jones in an impassioned 70-minute address Sunday afternoon, urging that all Christian bodies effect an organic merger in the United Church of Christ in America.

More than half of those attending the Wesley Memorial mass meeting expressed their approval of such a movement by signing commitment cards and pledging themselves for personal work in promoting the laymen's evangelistic enterprise.

Briefly stated, the proposed organic merger is likened to the Union of 48 States in America, where no State loses its rights, but maintains its individuality in becoming a member of the Union. So, said Dr. Jones, each great religious body entering into the United Church becomes a branch of the national and international organization, maintaining its particular individuality and rights, with voluntary option of amalgamation with other groups.

The one basis upon which entrance is to be made into the United Church, said Dr. Jones, is abiding faith in Jesus Christ and a willingness to affiliate with all who affirm such faith. Local and State matters would be adjusted by local and State assemblies, while policy for the whole United Church would be established by a General Assembly of all groups and States.

Atlanta is the twenty-first city to be visited by Dr. Jones in his tour of 30 cities. He reported successes in other cities. At Seattle, of 500 ministers, 497 voted favorably, with a similar count at Chicago, where also an audience of 5,000 voted almost unanimously in support of the lay movement. At Dallas, Dr. Jones reported, 2,000 persons voted almost to a man in favor of the United Church plan.

Commitment cards were supplied all attending the Atlanta Sunday meeting, and, apparently, more than one-half signed the cards.

Bishop John Moore Walker read the scripture selection, Pres. George Custer, of Morehouse College, offered the invocation, the Rev. L. F. Huckaby pronounced the benediction, and Chairman McMains introduced Dr. Jones.

Globe-Hop Pilots
Halted in China
By Strong Winds

SHANGHAI, Monday, Oct. 6—(UP)—Two American fliers, for 12 hours feared lost on a globe-circling flight in tiny Piper Cub Superchargers, were located Sunday at Amoy, China, after their light planes were forced down by strong headwinds.

United States Army planes were being readied to launch a search at dawn along China's southwest coast when George Truman, of Los Angeles, and Clifford Evans, of Washington, D. C., reported to Air Force authorities at Tokyo they expected to continue their flight to Shanghai Monday morning.

Long overdue on their hop from Hong Kong, the two pilots were delayed in reporting their position because of poor communications.

Need for improved street and highway lighting to reduce fatal traffic accidents in Georgia is reflected in a six-month report released by the State Department of Public Safety.

Analysis of the report by The Street and Traffic Safety Lighting Bureau, of Cleveland, Ohio, shows 25 percent more fatal accidents occur at night when traffic volume is 75 percent less than in daylight.

Comparison of fatal accidents to total accidents shows the dark-hour death risk 1.45 times that of daylight. One in five night accidents is fatal, as against one in nine in daytime.

Public school officials of North Georgia will have a chance to purchase more than 150 war surplus buildings located at Fort Oglethorpe and now being advertised for sale by War Assets Administration, Robert L. Cousins, of the State Department of Education, said Saturday.

Cousins invited school officials of North Georgia to meet with representatives of the U. S. Office of Education and WAA at the office of the custodian at Fort Oglethorpe Wednesday at 1 p. m. to inspect buildings prior to submitting bids.

Building being offered for sale include barracks, mess halls, administration buildings and bath houses. Cousins pointed out that educational institutions have a priority rating which permits them to purchase surplus facilities at a discount. Rate of discount ranges from 95 percent for classrooms and shops to 50 percent for faculty housing.

Cousins said many school systems in Georgia are "badly in need of additional space because of increased enrollment," adding, "Many systems which have floated bonds for public school buildings have been reluctant to proceed with construction because of current high labor and material costs."

"THIEF" OUTWITTED
Double-Take
Bag Grab Flops

Clever thinking on the part of an Atlanta night watchman and a man whose suitcase suddenly "disappeared" Sunday night resulted in recovery of the suitcase and the arrest of a Kentuckian.

Det. M. W. Blackwell said R. N. Nail, of 308 Pulliam St., S. W., had just returned from a trip to Rome, and stopped to chat with Night Watchman J. C. May on duty at 336 Central Ave., where construction work is under way. Nail put his suitcase down and was talking with the night watchman a short distance away. When he returned his suitcase was gone.

The two men searched the area and found the suitcase hidden behind some framework. The men decided to play "possum" in the hope that the person who hid the suitcase might return.

A short time later a man did return "to pick up the suitcase." But Nail and the night watchman seized and held him until police arrived.

U. S. Warns Jap Governors
Against Food Crisis 'Politics'

TOKYO, Oct. 5—(P)—An occupation spokesman bluntly told Japanese Prefectural Governors Sunday they must deliver half the new rice crop to Government channels and warned them to quit playing politics with the food problem.

This first direct intervention by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in the food collection program followed inability of the governors to settle it among themselves in conferences over the past several days.

Tokyo papers said four governors had walked out of the conference a few days after it began Sept. 20, complaining that quotas set for their prefectures were too high.

Lt. Col. J. H. Boulware, Chief of the Occupation Agricultural Production Section, told the governors in an address that the high quotas for delivery of rice and sweet potatoes would not be cut and that headquarters would not accept excuses. He said the food must go into legal channels for sale to city dwellers at fixed prices.

Boulware said headquarters had decided on the quotas while the governors were debating them, and that the amounts set should provide 80 to 85 percent of the rationing needs.

"Unfortunately," Boulware told the governors, "a few Japanese officials are more concerned with the welfare of a limited segment of the population than with the well-being of Japan as a whole."

He cited to them instances where they had deliberately lowered crop estimates and reported poor yields to try to reduce their quotas.

"Such tactics," he said, "have necessitated drastic action."

Farmers are allowed to retain or sell privately all food over their quotas. Occupation officials said many Japanese politicians had been currying favor by trying to help the farmers hold out.

The Central Government, however, has threatened to use force if necessary to collect the full amount.

MANILA, Oct. 5—(P)—A Philippine Government special agent was killed and another was wounded in a shooting Saturday at voters' registration booth in Bacalaran, southern suburb of Manila, police announced Sunday.

Police said the fight was over registration of new voters.

The Manila Times said there had been a series of slayings, ambushes and gun fights in widely separated parts of the islands in the past week.

Kiwanis Speaker Calls Stalin 'Worst Dictator'

Describing Marshal Stalin as the "worst dictator of all times" and decrying appeasement as "a means without an end," Bascom F. Jones, World War I veteran from Nashville, Tenn., Sunday night told representatives from 68 Kiwanis Clubs in Georgia that the United States should let Russia know its stand—and "literally step on Stalin if necessary."

Vishinsky Set To Halt Greek Compromise

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Compromise efforts in United Nations debate over Greece appeared headed for defeat with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky reported ready to reject anything short of full Russian demands.

Vishinsky was slated to address the Assembly's 57-nation Political Committee Monday on the heels of tentative American acceptance of a French conciliation proposal.

Vishinsky was understood to be prepared to turn aside the suggestion on the grounds that it left out two key points of the Russian plan—evacuation of foreign personnel from Greece and UN supervision of the American aid program.

The French plan provides for omitting any direct findings that Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria have supported guerrillas and fomented border unrest as provided in the American resolution. The resolution still would call for an on-the-spot UN commission to study frontier incidents.

In agreeing to "explore" the plan, the United States suggested that it might be well to ask the three Soviet satellites whether they would co-operate with such a border group.

The Russian answer was expected to be a renewed demand for inclusion of the troop evacuation and economic supervision points and stipulation that the commission have powers to look into the operation of the present Greek government.

Soviet tactics continued to call for stringing out the debate as long as possible in the hope of cutting into the United States' voting support.

The Assembly made tentative plans to go back into plenary session Wednesday in another effort to break the deadlock between the Soviet Union and India on election of a successor to Poland on the Security Council.

Jones, who has held every post in the American Legion except that of National Commander, said "no nation who has seen her sons and fathers die on the battlefield wants war. But we should be firm with Russia regardless of the outcome," he said.

The Tennessee said war-brewing conditions at present are not unlike those before the past two World Wars. Another conflict could and should be prevented, he added.

Jones also expressed the belief Russia does not want war at the present time any more than the United States, but if she is allowed to "run wild" anything can happen in the future.

Jones said as long as the United States has control of the atom bomb "we hold the trump card" as far as any nation is concerned.

Jones was the featured speaker as Georgia Kiwanis Clubs opened a three-day session at the Ansley Hotel with an estimated 2,000 persons of Georgia attending.

Paul Miles, of Metter, District Governor of Georgia is in charge of the three-day program. A welcome address was given by Virgil P. Warren, Atlanta Kiwanis Club President.

Leaders of Key Clubs, or Junior Kiwanis Clubs formed in High Schools, are meeting simultaneously with the senior Kiwanians. Women attending with their husbands will witness a special fashion show and reception.

Two outstanding Georgians will be featured speakers during today's program. Dr. Raymond R. Paty, Chancellor of the University System of Georgia and veteran of World War I, will speak on "Peace."

Brig. Gen. William E. Brougher, U. S. Army, who won distinction the hard way in World War II as Commander of the famed 11th Division will speak on "Patriotism."

The Assembly made tentative plans to go back into plenary session Wednesday in another effort to break the deadlock between the Soviet Union and India on election of a successor to Poland on the Security Council.

Linder Assails Farmers' Lot in Advancing Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Two spokesmen for Southern agriculture Sunday declared that the farmer is being made the scapegoat in the quest for a cause of high prices.

The visitors were Agriculture Commissioners L. M. Walker, Jr., of Virginia, and Tom Linder, of Georgia.

"The entire national economy, on a dollar basis, is up more than 260 percent and yet the farmer, whose prices have gone up less than any of the prices which he pays, is being made the scapegoat and a whipping boy," Linder declared.

Walker said, in a statement, that, while many farm commodity prices are at or near record highs, they are not out of line with wages, industrial profits or other prices.

He added that the farm situation was not attractive enough, even with current prices, to induce rural youth to remain on the farm.

Linder, who said he planned to attend the House Agriculture Committee meetings starting Monday, made public a letter to Agriculture Secretary Anderson in which he said:

"There is no remedy for the shortage of food or the shortage of anything else except increased production. The farmer cannot increase production without an increased supply of machinery and labor and a price for his products which will enable him to buy machinery and labor."

He said the national administration is selling tractors to Argentina for production of wheat that is selling for $5.95 a bushel while the American farmer is getting only $2.85 a bushel. He added that freight cars are being shipped to countries "that are not supposed to have anything to move in them" while the American farmer cannot get wheat cars.

PRIVATE LIFE OF BUCK

"You insisted on coming in, young man! Now can you see I don't need any floor wax?"

EX-RED EDITOR SAYS:

Purpose of 'International' Is Eventual War With U. S.

CANTON, Ohio, Oct. 5—(UP)—Louis Budenz, former editor of the Communist Daily Worker, said Sunday the purpose behind the formation of the Communist International Bureau by nine European countries was to consolidate the strength of "Soviet dictators" for a possible military conflict against the United States.

"Russia is now waging only a war of nerves against this nation," Budenz said in an interview. "But the new International's purpose is to strengthen the Communist position in Europe and Asia by adding more satellites until Soviet Russia is in a position economically and militarily to challenge the United States."

Budenz said the declaration published in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda in Moscow was "an open admission that the United States and Britain were enemies."

In Canton to speak before a local Catholic group, Budenz said the Communist International was never actually dissolved in fact. He said its activities were carried on under other forms.

He maintained that the International was designed to further the "creeping blitzkrieg" against countries in Europe and Asia and added that it was "eventually aimed against the United States."

"The creeping blitzkrieg is continuing and this co-operation of the Communist Parties in these specified countries is the strongest indication of that fact," he said.

The Soviet dictators are painfully aware that they have imposed government on several of these nations with only approximately the approval of 10 to 15 percent of the people, he said. "They wish to give the appearance of wider approval of their dictatorships in the satellite states and at the same time to facilitate the undermining of the democratic nations."

Chinese Lose Towns Along Mukden Rails

PEIPING, Oct. 5—(AP)—The Chinese Government has conceded the loss of a string of towns along the important railways to Mukden and Changchun as the Communists' sixth Manchurian offensive got into high gear.

The official Central News Agency named Kungchuling, 35 miles southwest of Changchun, as one of the principal points evacuated by government forces.

Others included old Kaiyuan, on a spur line 65 miles northeast of Mukden and three miles east of the new town on the Changchun-Mukden Railway; Haicheng, 75 miles southwest of Mukden on the railway to the supply port of Yingkow, and Itung, a highway hub 37 miles south of Changchun.

Government spokesmen said the National defense tactics involved a pincers movement from north and south, aimed at squeezing the Communists out of the railway.

They said armored trains were in action against the Communists southwest of Mukden in the area just north of the Great Wall which bounds China proper and that substantial reinforcements had landed at Hulutao and engaged the Communists near the wall.

South of the wall, the Communists were acknowledged to have started diversionary raids which again cut the Peiping-Pootung Railway 56 miles south of Peiping and threatened the Peiping-Tientsin link of the route to Manchuria.

Italian Premier Puts Commies on Defensive

ROME, Oct. 5—(UP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's resounding victory in three separate votes of confidence by the Constituent Assembly Sunday guaranteed an Italian foreign policy oriented toward the United States and put the Communists on the defensive for the first time since the war.

A spokesman for De Gasperi summed up the government's victory over Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti and his month-long campaign to overthrow the Premier's pro-Allied cabinet thus:

"The government has won half the battle. It has defeated its political enemies. The other half of the battle against the desperate economic situation is still to be won. It will be harder."

De Gasperi attended 8 a. m. mass at St. Peter's, although his victorious session of parliament had lasted until 2:30 a. m.

These international factors contributed to the government victory:

(1) Continued U. S. aid and hopes for the Marshall aid Europe plan.

(2) Saturday's dramatic announcement, just before the voting, the U. S. will renounce her share of warships stripped from Italy by the peace treaty.

(3) Two Russian vetoes of Italy's application for admission to the United Nations.

(4) Yugoslav (hence Communist) opposition to the new Trieste Free State, most of which was taken from Italian territory, and pressure against the new Italian-Yugoslav border.

Observers also pointed out that U. S. Ambassador James C. Dunn, who has been stumping Italy stressing extent of American aid, was in his diplomatic box for the first and crucial vote testing Communist strength. This was on the motion presented by Pietro Nenni, leader of the left-wing Socialists, who are allied with communism.

That De Gasperi's principal effort in the fight against inflation, the shortage of grain and coal, and mounting unemployment will be to seek more U. S. aid, including participation in the Marshall plan, was illustrated Sunday by a trial balloon.

Several newspapers, but not De Gasperi's party organ, speculated on a return trip by the Premier to the U. S. to renew contracts he made during his loan visit to Washington last January. De Gasperi's office said it knew nothing of a forthcoming visit.

It's Up to Private Business

A news story of national importance was unfolded last Friday at Americus.

A piece of legislation, "fathered" by Rep. Stephen Pace, of the Third District, publicly was put into operation before a crowd at the Americus baseball park.

This piece of legislation was the new mortgage loan service of the FHA.

It was in answer to the critics of government who complain that the government gets too much into business and that private concerns could do a better job.

We hope so. We know they can do so.

The nation now may see if they will.

This law provides for loans which make a profit for private business and cost the taxpayers nothing.

A farmer who wishes to buy a family size farm and who can prove to the local committee that he is worthy will be lent money up to 90 percent of the cost. FHA will guarantee the remainder. The cost is established by taking an average production value of the farm under consideration. Neither an inflated nor a deflated value will be possible.

The loan will be at 3½ percent. The lender will receive 2½ percent. One-half percent will be retained by FHA for setting up an insurance fund to guarantee the loans. The other half percent will be retained to pay for administrative costs.

It is a fine law. It will, or can, create home owners who will have an interest in their farms and will not let their land wash away or be abused. It prevents speculation in that only family sized farms can be bought. Therefore, neither a half dozen acres, for real estate speculation, would be bought in the guise of a "farm," nor could 500 or 1,000 acres be purchased through this plan.

It is a common-sense, valuable plan and we again congratulate Rep. Pace and all who assisted him. Now comes the test. Will the banks and insurance companies of America promote and assist this plan, with loans bearing 2½ percent, in order that independent farm owners may be added to our citizenship in every State in the Union?

Or will they forget the many pleas to get government out of business and refuse to co-operate because the interest rate is low and the terms of repayment long?

We hope and trust they will make of this program what it ought to be—the greatest farm program ever devised.

The Leather Industry Looks South

So rapidly has Georgia's livestock industry grown in recent years, a group of Easterners is reported considering establishing a large tannery at Moultrie.

The group has paid $2,000 for a six-month option on a section of Spence Field, surplus Army air training center, and is exploring the possibilities of making leather there.

The consulting engineer who is handling the project is quoted by The Moultrie Observer to the effect that availability of finished leather made in Moultrie would attract leather using industries such as shoe and luggage manufacturers, adding substantially to the number of new jobs created by operation of the tannery itself.

The Constitution hopes the projected new industry goes through.

Certainly it would seem that more than enough hides would be available in the Moultrie territory to justify its existence.

The leather industry is but one of many for which the new South holds tremendous possibilities.

UMT Is the Only Way

Were it not for Sen. Robert Taft's record of having expressed himself freely and frankly, if at times ineptly, it would be natural to lay his vigorous stand against Universal Military Training to his intense but undeclared desire for the Republican Presidential nomination. For it is politically axiomatic that determined opposition to military service attracts a large following of voters.

Sen. Taft thinks Universal Military Training might "encourage war" and, instead, he would expand the National Guard to provide a technically trained military reserve. He concedes a reserve is necessary to back up the 1,500,000 men now in the armed forces, but thinks it should be on a voluntary paid basis "more closely co-ordinated than heretofore with the Department of National Defense."

It seems to us the Senator's objection to compulsory military training are somewhat nebulous and the alternative he offers too weak to merit serious consideration.

He admits to the problem facing the country—that is, to remain strong. He differs with President Truman and other political leaders of both parties only on the method of achieving the desired goal.

It is highly doubtful that Sen. Taft's plan for a strong National Guard would offer the margin of safety we need. Surely he would not expect a force of part-time soldiers to become as efficient as a group that had received day-in-and-day-out instruction over a period of months.

The Constitution would not belittle the fine accomplishments or the valor of the National Guard. The record of that organization in combat during the last war speaks for itself. But the record also shows that some National Guard units were insufficiently prepared to take to the battlefield at a moment's notice. And it is only too likely there will be no more than a moment's notice should another war begin.

Military experts are agreed, and The Constitution long ago came to the reluctant conclusion, that Universal Military Training, meaning a year of such service for every able-bodied youth, is the only way our nation can be reasonably certain of its ability to protect its interests and preserve the peace.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Palestine

Editor Constitution: In recent weeks your paper has carried a considerable number of news items, editorials, syndicated columns and letters to the editor on the subject of Palestine.

The vast majority of these reflect the overwhelming sympathy of the American public for Jewish aspirations as regards Palestine and a deep understanding of the needs of the Jewish people. They also show that Americans are aware of the long standing commitments of our government in favor of a Jewish National Home in Palestine, viz. the congressional resolutions of 1922 and 1945, the British-American Mandates Convention of 1924, the Democratic and Republican party platforms of 1944 and the declaration of all American Presidents since Woodrow Wilson.

The issue is now before the United Nations and it is of the utmost importance that our Government should support the majority report of the Special Committee on Palestine, which recommends partition of the country into Jewish and Arab States. This proposed solution is eminently fair to both peoples. May we be permitted to ask all who are interested in seeing that our pledges on Palestine are implemented, to immediately wire Secretary Marshall that he instruct the American delegation to solidly back the majority report? Address: The Secretary of State, care of Headquarters, U. S. Delegation, 2 Park Ave., New York City.

Chairman Atlanta Zionist Council, Atlanta.

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

It Needn't Happen

Editor Constitution: Why are the Russians that way? It's the one way to knock out Democracy, so they can take over—but wait. This needn't happen. As we govern our own affairs, so will not turn to Communism unless we wish to, the one thing needful for a majority of our voters to remember the simple financial schemes of Democracy and Communism, then we understand why the Communists act as they do, and this knowledge will save Democracy, for we will vote right, and Communism can have no effect, unless money (or we fear it) Profit and loss, supply and demand, regulate our prices. Money as well as men want to work. There is a continual searching by both money and men, for things to do and make, and better ways, so there is continual progress. Our times are good when money is busy, and are hard only when money is afraid, or idle. Busy money insures good times. This scheme allows liberty.

After taking property for the State, Communism uses price fixing agencies to make prices for what is bought and sold, and for wages. Thus one's liberty to buy, sell, or choose his job at his own wages, is lost. As money in democracies is free to do as it likes, the Communists know that fear can cause it to leave industries, thus causing unemployment and hard times—so the scheme, keep up the fear—keep money out of industries until workers must turn to Communism or some form of controlled economy, for work. Communists do not want good times, only on their own terms. The remedy, vote right, and when money knows it will be protected, it will keep busy, for it wants to work. Good times will continue.

Unwise Agitation

Editor Constitution: Concerning the shooting of those eight prisoners down at Brunswick, I wish at the beginning to say that I am not a Negro hater and believe in treating them right. But what if those convicts had been white? Would anybody have raised a voice about it? What are those guards doing on the walls and watchtowers of the Federal penitentiary armed with machineguns? In case the prisoners tried a mass escape would they open the gates for them, furnish a truck and kiss them farewell, saying "go on, murderers and burglarize some more?"

All this agitation is just fanning the flame of unrest and hatred among our colored peoples and is encouraged by a lot of politicians seeking their votes. I can't believe the right thinking colored people anywhere approve such a course. And talking about your civil rights, I think a person convicted of a felony has lost his civil rights. J. F. SIMMONS, Atlanta.

Report on Georgia Politics

At Americus Friday afternoon there were Sens. Richard B. Russell and Walter F. George; there was Rep. Steve Pace; there was Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson, and a whole host of State and County political captains, lieutenants, sergeants and corporals representing every faction of State politics.

The magnet drawing them was the Farmers' Housing Administration Loan, the first in the nation, honoring the "father" of the act, Rep. Steve Pace.

A fellow with big ears could just turn them here and there, as engineers beam a radio station, and pick up all sorts of things. A fellow could then put all this into the combine of his mind and come out with a small amount of grain. There would, of course, be more chaff than wheat.

But this, to me, seemed grain.

Russell There is a general opinion that Sen. Richard B. Russell will not have opposition next year and that, if an officeholder can be said to deserve an occasional unopposed campaign, he does.

He is really just coming into his own in appreciation by the people of Georgia. He is really the best informed and most effective member of the United States Senate where agricultural legislation is concerned.

The late Sen. Bankhead, of Alabama, who was considered the agricultural leader, once told me that he considered Dick Russell, of Georgia, the best man in agricultural legislation he ever knew. "I've got the credit, Dick did most of the work," he said.

In the last Congressional session it was Dick Russell who did most of the work which saved the agricultural program. He is going back to try and get, with the help of the House members, something the farmer deserves; namely, to have the cost of his labor considered in ascertaining parity. No businessman manufactures a product that he does not figure labor costs in the price. The farmer is not permitted to do so. That is wrong.

At any rate, Sen. Russell has that next on his program, but he may face an even greater fight—that of again saving the program which the Republicans seem determined to destroy.

If Sen. Russell has any opposition it is not likely to be formidable. An oft-mentioned opponent, Agricultural Commissioner Tom Linder, has spoken in praise of Sen. Russell and said that Georgia is better represented in the Senate than any other State. This would indicate Mr. Linder intends to remain in Georgia politics.

George Sen. George appears in better health than ever, despite reports to the contrary. Indeed, his thinking and his initiative seem to be more aggressive than ever before.

Whether his health will permit him to be a candidate in 1950 no one, of course, can say. But he, too, is gaining in public esteem and even those who considered him ultra-conservative and interested only in business affairs before Congress, are cheering his latest speeches on international affairs and his support of the Marshall foreign policy program.

If his health permits in 1950 only a very audacious candidate would offer against him. He is rendering his greatest service today.

Congressional Two South Georgia districts promise hot Congressional campaigns, the First and Eighth. The Seventh likely will see another.

The veterans, Eugene Cox, Paul Brown, Sidney Camp, Carl Vinson and John Wood, seem in no danger. Rep. Davis, of the Fifth District, also seems sure of an indorsement term under the existing regulations of the unit system.

There was not much talk about the Congressional races. Hence, very little grain!

Georgia Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson made an excellent speech at the ceremony. He has improved as a speaker. Incidentally, in answer to many queries, he is the Acting Governor, not the Governor, because the law creating the office of Lieutenant Governor specified that in the event the Lieutenant Governor succeeded to office he should be only the Acting Governor, not the Governor, but should have all the rights and privileges of the office. Talmadge lieutenants were there. They were confident.

I encountered a number of young men who supported James V. Carmichael in the race a year ago who now have gone over to the Talmadge camp. There was talk of more and some of these have since been confirmed. Most of them say they would again support Carmichael should he ever again be a candidate. The chief reason for the turn to young Talmadge is a usually unexplained reason: they seem a little far fetched, but they exist, nonetheless.

Herman Talmadge would seem to have more organizational strength at this time. He is reportedly speaking at least four times a day. It is perhaps significant many of these speeches are to audiences his father never troubled to reach.

Both factions appear confident. Acting Gov. Thompson has done a very acceptable job and has been lucky on the State income. On the basis of what was tuned into my ear, the Talmadge faction seems to have a present edge, due largely to statewide organizational strength.

No Man Need Pay Usury on Any Loan

Fulton Sol. Paul Webb has declared war against loan sharks. He promises his office, with the aid of both City and County Police Departments, will relentlessly ferret out and prosecute these human parasites who suck the financial blood out of their victims.

All to the good and herewith this column bestows best wishes and a heartfelt blessing on Sol. Webb and all who aid him in this utterly commendable campaign.

In the news story about Sol. Webb's announcement a quoted statement from Asst. Sol. William Boyd cites cases where loan sharks have charged 100 percent interest and more. It also tells about "strong-arm chasers," said to be employed by the usurers to hound their victims for more and more payments.

All of which reveals an exceedingly sad state of affairs. Just how extensive this financial bloodsucking is, in Atlanta, is uncertain. It is widespread practice, it is a tragic commentary upon the ignorance or gullibility of too many of our people.

Illegal For usury is illegal in Georgia. The law specifies the maximum rate of interest which may be charged on a loan. I am not certain, but believe it is limited to three per cent per month on amounts less than $300. While itself is on the exorbitant side, but is at least better than the rates alleged by the Solicitor's office to be charged by some of the sharks.

The remedy for anyone caught in the clutches of a loan shark is simple. All they have to do is to refuse to continue paying, after they have repaid the principal and the legal interest and inform the shark they will go to the Solicitor's office or to any lawyer and appeal to the law for protection.

Never at last, the shark knows he is violating the law and can be punished and he won't risk a showdown in court.

I am not sure, but believe there is a provision in the law under which anyone who has been forced to pay excessive interest rates can sue and recover twice the amount he has paid.

Employers to Blame? After all, what can a loan shark do to one who refuses to pay extortionate moneys? Go to the borrowers' employer? That is, or at least used to be, the most potent threat.

I had understood, though, that as a result of earlier campaigns against usurious lenders, "salary buyers" etc., Atlanta employers were well informed on this problem and had agreed not to provide a terroristic weapon to the sharks by threatening to discharge employees who got into such debt.

If that old agreement has been forgotten, it should be revived. Employers should realize that any such discharge rule is the one factor which makes the usurious loan business possible.

If the financial embarrassed employee could not only go, frankly, to his employer but be assured of a sympathetic and helpful hearing, "most all the loan sharks would go out of business within a month."

Or, at least, reduce their interest rates to the legal limit. Even then they'd get a high profit on their investment, it would seem.

For the Police If, as alleged, "strong arm" collectors have held the threat of bodily harm over borrowers, that is a matter for the police. The threatened individual need only appeal to any officer and the situation should be—I hope most surely would be—taken care of.

And, to repeat, if a borrower has paid outrageous interest, there is a simple remedy at law which can be discovered by a brief call at the office of any reputable lawyer.

Now, Sol. Webb asks any who have paid the usury rates to come to his office and provide ammunition for his campaign against the sharks.

They may be sure of protection against retaliation and, probably, shown the legal road to recover any excess payments they may have made.

And they will aid in correcting an evil, a correction which will be protection for them and for their friends in the future.

Uncle Charlie Experiments

Last week I had a sign painter letter up a little placard which read, "Through these portals pass the most beautiful potato pancakes in the world." I figured I'd hand my nose. As I reached the third landing, my nostrils were assaulted by the smell of something burning—and it was like the funeral pyre of a pair of old gym socks.

I opened the door and saw the outline of my Uncle Charlie's figure through yellowish smoke. He was puffing on a pipe. "What are you burning in there?" I choked. "A death certificate?"

IN FRONT of Uncle Charlie on the parlor table was a little brownish mound of tobacco. Charlie looked up at me with the eyes of a man who had been fighting a forest fire.

"I am experimenting with science," he announced, and blew a cloud of smoke in my face.

"I will break the lease yet. The neighbors are complaining we are keeping in here a goat." "Two weeks ago," said Charlie, "the candy store is raising the price of my favorite brand smoking tobacco five cents. To help the merchants bring down high prices, I am resolving to buy various kinds tobacco and mix up my own mixture. I buy, I mix."

"And?" I asked, like an old vaudeville straight man.

"The first mixture is very interesting," said my uncle, "but lacks a little sweetness. So I am adding for ten cents maple syrup. This makes the mixture too wet. So I am adding a little cornstarch for body."

"If your mixture didn't taste good," I offered, "why didn't you throw it away?"

"You must think I'm nutsy-dopey-crazy," said the inventor. "The mixture is already representing an investment of over a dollar. To protect my original investment, I must keep adding. And lucky I did, because from this is coming a great discovery."

"A tobacco that cures people of smoking?" I suggested.

"A much greater invention," said my uncle. "Better than DDT. One day, I'm noticing a strange thing. In the kitchen is flies. In the bedroom is flies. But in the parlor, where I am mixing, is no flies! I realize I am discovering an insecticide."

At this moment Uncle Charlie slapped himself on the neck.

"Wasn't that a fly?" I said. "I thought you told me your mixture chased them all away?"

"My mixture did," said Charlie. "But this isn't exactly my mixture. Yesterday while I am over at the coffee house, your Aunt Frieda threw my invention out with the garbage. A million dollars is somewhere in the barrels."

"Why don't you duplicate the original mixture?" I asked.

"The genius forgot what he put in it," said my Aunt Frieda.

Uncle Charlie sighed. "Again I must begin experimenting with science. But in this house an inventor gets no respect."

"Respect—no," said Aunt Frieda, coming out of the kitchen with a big platter. "Sauerbraten—yes. Eat, eat, eat."

Spare the Machine And Spoil the Child

A New York inventor has secured a patent on a mechanical paddling machine.

Soon we may have a generation of children untouched by human hand.

The device consists of a revolving rubber paddle operated by a foot pedal. The deluxe model, one supposes, boasts a recording apparatus which simultaneously assures Junior that this is hurting you worse than him.

The mechanical paddler may be just what the nation needs, (it being significant that juvenile delinquency has risen as the razor strop has disappeared).

Gas and oil heat are mighty convenient, but there was a lot to be said for the woodshed.

Still, as the world hails the inventor of the mechanical paddler, one can hear a host of juvenile voices raised in inquiry: "It's ingenious, yes . . . but is it progress?"

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

'Ike' as Truman's Running Mate in '48?

WASHINGTON—The suggestion that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower be placed on the Democratic ticket as President Truman's running mate next year is taking hold among leaders of the party.

Since the proposal was first advanced in this column at least two prominent Democratic Senators have endorsed the idea and a number of others are known to have expressed sympathetic interest.

There is a growing feeling that quiet undercover moves to this end are in the making; if, in fact, they have not already been made.

Sentiment Sen. Sparkman, of Alabama, former Democratic member of the Lower House, recently came out openly in favor of Gen. Ike being drafted as President Truman's running mate. Since then Sen. Richard B. Russell, of Georgia, another party stalwart, has expressed sentiments in the same direction.

The matter will probably be discussed at some length when members of the Democratic National Committee meet here later in the month to formally elect Sen. J. Howard McGrath, of Rhode Island, as national party chairman to succeed Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan, who is stepping down because of ill health.

Party politics, especially as it is related to the Presidential ticket, is always an undercurrent topic of discussion when the national committeemen and committeewomen get together. It may well be that the movement to bring Gen. Ike into the Democratic fold will be launched openly when the National Committee meets.

GOP Moves Currently the General is enjoying a boom for the Republican nomination. Already an organization has been formed with the idea of having him selected as the GOP Presidential candidate.

Gen. Ike himself, while remaining silent as to his plans, has frowned on any open organization activity in his behalf. Nevertheless, there are reasons to believe he would be agreeable to running for President in the general election if the movement to this end materialized.

As for his personal politics, so far as the record shows, he has no affiliation with either political party. That explains why he is being boomed both for the Republican nomination and as Mr. Truman's running mate.

Fills Bill President Truman, who is certain to receive his party's nomination for a second term, if he wants it—and he does—is greatly in need of someone who would strengthen the ticket. Gen. Ike seems to fill the bill with respect to this better than anyone who has been suggested. Those who are urging him for second place on the ticket see an opportunity for the President to step in and foreclose the matter before the Republican boom is advanced too far.

That comes about by virtue of the fact that it is a custom, seldom if ever violated, for the Presidential nominee to choose his running mate. Since Mr. Truman is sure of the nomination there is nothing to prevent him from making overtures to Gen. Eisenhower now, even this far ahead of the national convention.

Sen. Sparkman and the others of kindred thought would have Mr. Truman do just that—sign him up now for second place on the Democratic ticket. The offer could be made agreeable to running by holding out the prospect of the General becoming the logical successor to Mr. Truman at the expiration of his second term in 1952, assuming the Democrats could win with a ticket of the kind.

Uncertainty Gen. Eisenhower's only chance at landing the Republican nomination rests on the possibility of a deadlock developing between the present leading contenders. It is a major uncertainty at best.

But the Democrats are able to present him with a sure shot thing as regards the Vice Presidential nomination. All President Truman has to do is say the word. He can say it now just as effectively as he could next July, when the Democratic conclave is scheduled to meet.

That is exactly what a growing number of party leaders want to see the President do. They want him to call in Gen. Ike and quietly seek to tie strings around him. No stronger ticket could be presented, it appears.

Recent public sentiment polls have tended to show the widespread popularity enjoyed by the conqueror of the Nazis. He even runs ahead of the President in the polls.

For the Democrats to pull a coup of the kind would be a real accomplishment. It would put the Republicans on something of a spot. It may come to pass yet. Certainly it will be interesting to watch.

OLLIE REEVES

"Grandparents' Day" will be inaugurated Oct. 12.—News item.

Sometimes, with sorrow and regret, we find we have neglected to do; ourselves neglect a thing or two we earnestly had planned to do; Reply to letters from a friend or some small gift which we should send, Or speaking the bright cheerful word to some poor pessimistic bird.

But times goes by on flapping wings and each well-filled tomorrow brings New thoughts to clutter up the mind and push our duties far behind. Thus we go on our several ways observing many different "days" And, up to now, have just about "included all grandparents out."

We speak of "dear old folks at home," of grandpa with his whitened dome, Of grandma by the fireplace engaged in threading out some lace Or rocking gently in her chair while "knitting up the sleeve of care" And dreaming of the parties flung when she and dear old gramps were young.

That was the picture years ago . . . now they are off to see a show, Or dining where the bulbs are bright and jitter-bugging through the night.

For old folks now are twice as spry as in the hallowed days gone by— And if we want to set a date to meet with them and celebrate, To feed them and to quench their thirst, I bet we have to catch them first.

BILL CUNNINGHAM

High Prices a World Danger

The British financial plight is our plight whether we like it or not, and whether we like Britain or not. Part of the British plight, and no small part, is these prices of ours. They explained to me over there, and I've seen the statement made since by their authorized spokesmen, that part of the reason their loan ran out in 13 months, instead of the hoped-for five years was because American prices jumped so fast and so high between the time they were granted the money and the time they could start to buy that the money would buy only a percentage of what they'd had every reason to believe it would when they submitted their estimates and negotiated the difference. By the terms of the loan, they were forced to buy from us and at our prices. Those prices have not only run away from us, but they've run away from them. We can get more. They can't.

Current prices, therefore, are not only a domestic nuisance, but an international danger, and for all the headlines devoted to them, and all the viewing-with-alarm, nobody seems to be reminding the public of just how they started and who let them run.

THEY STARTED exactly four days after V-J Day when Walter Reuther announced that 200,000 members of the United Automobile Workers, CIO, would strike the General Motors industry. There's no point now in repeating the dreary and damaging list, but the entire steel industry went out, the electrical industry, John L. Lewis' miners, the Seafarers, the N. Y. teamsters. The railroad men threatened to, but quit when the President threatened to take the railroads over and demand some drastic anti-labor legislation.

But this administration position that all workers were entitled to an 18 percent increase because living costs had advanced by that much was only half, and the publicized half, of what started inflating prices.

The rest was the policy of the Wage Stabilization Board of quietly granting the industries affected, which meant practically all of them, to raise their prices in about the same proportion as they were being forced to raise the workers' wages.

This passed it all directly on to the consumer, whether that consumer was a housewife, or, and eventually, a purchasing country such as Great Britain. There were other factors, perhaps the greatest of which was the fact that all the strikes so hampered production that the market was not flooded with all the articles people were anxious and able to buy.

THIS PLAYED its big part when price controls were finally abolished by what amounted to national demand. The argument of those who demanded their end was that the law of supply and demand would hold prices down. Under the situation caused by all the stoppages and shortages, however, it was still in, in a case of heavy demand and insufficient supply. This all goes back to the same bad handling.

So far as the domestic end goes, the remedy seems to be the one the unorganized minorities are taking—the buyer's strike. They are supposed to have brought prices down after the first World War, but it's doubtful that they'll be effective on a national scale now. Too many people have too much money—as yet. The long-run answer is probably production. The markets on made goods will eventually be flooded and supply-and-demand will then undoubtedly take charge. Food may be another story.

That, however, is the less important of two problems right now. The big one is the high cost of steel, coal and processed materials other countries, Britain most prominently, must have to survive. They can't afford our prices even on money we lend them. If we give the products away, we'll eventually go broke ourselves.

Economically, we've been on a beautiful tender with the administration tending bar and all drinks on the house. Now the liquor's running out and the gray, the very gray dawn is breaking. Those birds that seem to have come back home during the party don't look enough like chickens to make it really comfortable. They've got sharp beaks, leathery necks and beady eyes that seem not to be sleeping but to be watching in expectation of something.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

They Move in Decent Society

NEW YORK—John Edgar Hoover, the Director of the FBI, joined Gov. Warren and Sen. Downey, of California, a few days ago in their discovery of a new underworld in the amusement industry. On this special phase of the new problem of criminality in the entertainment trades, Mr. Hoover delivered some remarks to a class of 500 of his G-men at the Department of Justice in Washington.

"Clearing headlines announced the assassination of Bugsy Siegel, but circumstances surrounding his career in crime tell the story better than words," said he. "Here was an individual whose life was a constant challenge to common decency. Yet he and his criminal scum were lionized and their favors sought after in so-called respectable circles."

MR. H. was referring here to an account of a cocktail party by the Eddie Cantors soon after Siegel was shot dead in the presence of another socially distinguished Hollywood racketeer known as Allen Smiley, which is an alias of Aaron Smehoff, and Abraham Smickoff, originally of Beliza, Russia. Cantor had blown some kisses after the dead Gorrilla and Jimmy Durante, an old-time speakeasy player himself, saluted Siegel's memory kindly.

Then, too, Hoover remembered that Siegel had been a cordial friend of an American woman of wealth who married an Italian and became, for some years, a sort of rhestone Mrs. Astor of the Hollywood glamour set, under the title of the Countess Dorothy Di Frasso. She mourned Siegel's passing by phone from Italy and the morgue envelopes showed that the Countess Dorothy until a few years ago was the head babe of the haute monde and the hostess of the Hollywood and have-another-had-of-caviar set. "The glamour that surrounded his life in all its vile implications was shockingly disgusting," said John Edgar, still going on about Bugsy, "but Siegel was a symbol. He fronted for more sinister and disreputable characters, the untouchables who hire mercenaries to do their work."

He fronted for Frank Costello, Willie Moretti, and Joe Adonis, of the Jersey criminal scum. There is a continuing, widening web of association among these people. In Arizona last Winter, an old-time Leavenworth convict with a brutal record turned up socially with some of the old Roosevelt New Deal White House set. This is one of the manifestations that Hoover means when he twangles the note about the lionizing of criminal scum by "so-called respectable social circles."

NOW LET US consider a little night-side paper published in Hollywood called "Hollywood Nite Life, Movies, Radio, Nite Clubs, Sports, Music."

The mast head names Jimmy Tarantino as the "Editor and Publisher." Tarantino is a swipe and hustler who used to hang around Jacobs' Beach, a stretch near Madison Square Garden where the fighters, managers and racketeers gather. He has a cheap police record in Newark and he has been a friend and protégé of Frank Sinatra.

George Evans, Sinatra's press agent and manager, has been jumpy lately. They overdid their publicity. The Pied Piper theme about the hungry-looking little ragamuffin with the hollow cheeks and the innocent stare, leading millions of American young girls—just children—into insane street commotions and "liberal" or "anti-Fascist" political riots was badly overdone. People got inquisitive and inquired what sort of fellow this really was who was going to influence their young ones. They found out. One arrest on a seduction charge that washed out. Not too bad, but no recommendation for a youth leader, especially of girls. Then Evans said the complainant seduced Sinatra and was arrested for annoying him. Not often is the female of the species accused of deflowering an innocent young male roadhouse crooner, which was Sinatra's job at that time. But it could happen in Sinatra's neighborhood in New Jersey where his tough underworld friends live. Another arrest followed for drawing a bead on a man who wasn't looking and slugging him with a sneak punch. Then Sinatra hollered "tolerance," which is coming to rival patriotism as the last refuge of the scoundrel.

HE THOUGHT he had better not risk a trial on that charge. The conviction for slugging would have been bad enough, but the evidence that would have gone into the permanent record would have been no boost for a leader of American youth. So Sinatra paid off instead. Police record: Two arrests.

Evans says Sinatra brushed Tarantino long ago. Never did have anything to do with him, really. Just one of those punks who try to latch onto a successful fellow.

But, on Feb. 4, 1946, Sinatra's name was signed first to a telegram to Fred Howser, the prosecuting attorney of Los Angeles County, demanding his police protection for Tarantino and his wife and child who had been "threatened and harassed by political gangsters." There was a queer report that Mrs. Tarantino's own essays in kidnapping did not confirm this but it did lead to interesting information about Tarantino. Sinatra assumed great importance in the telegram to Howser. He himself had called the meeting of a "Citizens' Committee."

Mr. Howser is now the attorney general of the State in charge of several serious investigations of underworld activity in connection with the amusement business, ordered by Gov. Warren. In this work he can exchange information with the FBI, the Bureau of Narcotics and many police departments.

Evans specifically said Sinatra did not finance Tarantino's paper. One appropriate selection from Tarantino's own essays is entitled "A Weekend at the Flamingo." This is two columns of ecstatic publicity about the gangster's trap at Las Vegas and personal admiration of "Mr. Benjamin Siegel, a handsome, groomed, tall, handsome, tanned and smiling gent," whom J. Edgar Hoover called "A challenge to human decency."

Reciprocity for Red Headlines

Judging from the headlines and news stories, our friends and well-wishers, the Russians, are releasing a one-way stream of accusations, abuse and ill-augury in our direction. Even on a quiet day, Pravda can dig up that oldie about "Capitalism Doomed in Decadent West," or "Pravda Sees U. S. Economic Crash Near," and I am wondering whether there is any return service available to the Russians from this country. If not, I would be happy to offer a few standing headlines such as "Gallico Brands Communism a Fake" and "Gromyko a Pain in the Neck, Columnist Says," to toss into Pravda on a dull afternoon.

I am not sufficiently familiar with the Russian mentality to know whether they would enjoy this sort of thing in their newspapers as much as we seem to in ours. But it must get to be a little dull reading eternally how wonderful you are and what a no-good the other fellow is, though I must say the Muscovite has exhibited a wonderful capacity for lapping up self-praise to date. But the Moujik mind is represented as a rather dour one that is happiest when confronted with gloom, and it is my feeling that from time to time we ought to provide him with a few dire predictions and prophecies of doom, just to keep him on his toes.

THUS, when boys in Moscow put one out—"Reds See Capitalism Dogged in U. S." my little service would have one all ready in exchange—"Communism Can't Last, Say Red-White-and-Blue: Wait Until the Suckers Who Bought It Find Out What They're Missing."

This one ought to go big in Izvestia on a Sunday afternoon, and permission is hereby given my Russian colleagues to reprint it. For five rubles in stamps, I will send along the story that goes with it, which is a dilly.

I have a recent Russian headline here—"Pravda Says Hitler U. S. Pact Is a Sellout to the Americans," a robust statement calculated to bring joy to the

Enthusiasm Does the Trick

The most valuable attribute an ordinary person can possess is the quality known as enthusiasm. Paderewski told one of his admirers that there was more perspiration in his playing than inspiration, which is another way of saying that hard work can achieve wonders. Of course this is true, but there is something much greater in enthusiasm than there is in mere hard work. A little fellow with a powerful lot of enthusiasm for his cause can work wonders.

This morning before day I stood on our front porch at Yellow River and listened to the sounds. It was quite dark at 6 o'clock these Fall mornings and the birds are not up (not the day birds at any rate) and one can pick up the sounds usually drowned out by the more brilliant ones which arrive with day. I noted the stirrings of Dinty and her kittens now making their home under the back porch and the scampering of a lively rat or chipmunk in the storeroom upstairs and then suddenly there rose out of the distance the call of old Chanticleer. And in no time at all he was answered by another rooster several miles away. And then again the first and then the second and so on . . .

JOHN MARVIN RAST

Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father.—John 14:9.

A voice from the pew cautions any preacher addicted to selling himself to remember that before Apollo learned the way "more perfectly" his congregations said, "What a wonderful preacher," but afterward, "What a wonderful Christ." Another who gave himself sacrificially to his vocation, Michelangelo, wore a lighted candle on his cap that no shadow of himself might fall on his sculpturing. Our business is making Christ known. By work, by word, by our walk He must be magnified. In everything our dedication must approach His who said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

Yessir, its enthusiasm that does the trick. And, come to think of it, what's he got to enthuse over that we haven't? The difference is that he displays his.

"Service with a Smile"

Motorists are mighty glad to patronize Ed's Service Station. The driveway's always cleanly swept, the pumps kept nicely painted, and the office and rest rooms neat and spotless. And Ed himself is "Service with a Smile."

It's not only Ed's idea. The company that supplies Ed's oil and gasoline insists on certain standards—not just in the upkeep of the station, but in the courteous service that Ed renders.

It's like the brewers' program of Self-Regulation. Through bulletins, meetings and personal visits, the brewers encourage retailers of beer to maintain clean, law-abiding taverns. Those that don't toe the line are reported to the authorities.

From where I sit, it's just common business sense to see that the product which you sell is handled by responsible, courteous people through attractive outlets. It wins the good will and the gratitude of the community.

Cadillac

DISTINCTION

Throw against Cadillac any test you care to make—and it will stand revealed as the monarch of motordom. Is it beauty you wish to compare? A look is all you need. Is it performance? Comfort? Handling ease? A ride tells the story. Is it engineering or long life? The answer is found in Cadillac's forty-five-year history. Truly, there is nothing with which to compare a Cadillac—from any standpoint.

If you are waiting for a new Cadillac—please be assured that every effort is being made to further production. Demand is so great, however, that some delay in delivery is still inevitable. But hold to your purpose! There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

Tech's Slaten Plays Best Game of Career

Editor's Note: Here is the second of a series of Monday articles on unsung heroes of major football games of the past weekend, as seen through the eyes of Constitution sports writers:

GEORGIA TECH-TULANE: He came back from the wars last season and played first string but his work was overshadowed by that of Bob Davis, the Tech Captain and outstanding candidate for All-America at tackle.

But against Tulane Saturday, as the Yellow Jackets roared along the undefeated road, Ralph Slaten reached a previously unattained peak, played the greatest game of his career and contributed materially to his team's victory.

Slaten is an Atlanta boy. He came to Tech from North Fulton back before the war and took his licks on the freshman and "B" teams, although he dished out enough to be regarded as a great prospect.

Like so many others, the war caught him and also, like so many others, he came out of it a married man.

The sandy-haired 200-pounder was terrific against the Green Wave. His downfield blocking was good but it was on defense that he really stood out.

"Slaten played his best game," Coach Bobby Dodd said. "He was our outstanding player."

—JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

GEORGIA-LSU: Three years ago on Legion Field, Birmingham, Ala., an unknown young halfback named Stanley Nestorak paced the University of Georgia football team to a startling 14-7 victory over the University of Alabama.

It was the only game Alabama lost that year and eventually the Crimson Tide went to the Sugar Bowl to stage one of the greatest shows in that New Year's Day classic.

Until Saturday that was Nestorak's one and only contribution to football at the University. He became a comparative unknown, dropping so low as to play on the Bulldogs' "B" team last Thanksgiving Day, against the Georgia Tech Es.

But after his Georgia Bulldogs had crushed LSU Saturday, 35-19, Coach Wallace Butts singled out Nestorak as the "unsung hero" of the game.

"I thought Stan provided the spark we needed to win that ball game," Coach Butts declared. "He came through with gains when we needed them most. That spark is something we've been lacking lately."

Nestorak is a senior now. But if he shows any of his Saturday form the rest of the season, he may be the answer to Georgia's backfield problems.

—F. M. WILLIAMS.

VANDY-ALABAMA: Two of the biggest lines in the SEC tangled here Saturday. Alabama's averages 202, Vanderbilt's 196. The balance of power was one Wayne Cantrell, Vandy's ubiquitous left tackle.

A 205-pound, six-foot-one sophomore, Cantrell hails from Mayfield, Ky., and one can only wonder how Bear Bryant's Mounties ever let him get away. Cantrell tore open the door time and again on offense.

He went after punt receivers with superlative fierceness. But it was on defensive line play that he really resembled something right out of a scaback's nightmare. It was Cantrell who smeared at least half of Alabama's running plays in the first half when the Tide, trying to win with power on the ground, was able to make but one first down.

And it was Cantrell who stopped Loping Lowell Tew after he had stepped off 23 yards for that one.

It was Cantrell who almost singlehandedly stymied Alabama's first scoring threat late in the third quarter. With the ball on Vandy's eight-yard line, Bama tried a pass but Cantrell broke through and rushed Gilmer so that the heave was doomed before it was air-borne.

On the next play, Cantrell again came crashing through, this time to throw Tew for a five-yard loss. The desperate Tide tried another pass on third down, but again Cantrell, this time accompanied by two colleagues, was through, and Gilmer's misguided missile struck the ground at the receiver's feet.

A fourth down pass was intercepted, Hurlin Harry having become Hurried Harry, and Vandy promptly punted to the 40.

A moment later when, after three running plays, the Crimson had a first down on the 22, Cantrell tackled Gilmer with a savagery which rattled windowpanes across the river in East Nashville and Harried Harry, after all, is only human, fumbled the ball. Vandy's Copp recovered and Cantrell had stemmed the Tide where Canute had failed.

Dutch Cantrell played like an All-American Saturday. He is only a sophomore and before his career is over, he may well be one.

—JACK TARVER.

DUKE-TENNESSEE: Maybe not unsung heroes but definitely not praised enough so far are two Duke guards, namely, Ted Marshall and Jimmy Knotts. Marshall is 19 years old and a six-foot 190-pounder from Camden, S. C., and a junior in school. Knotts, also at six feet and weighing 190, hails from Albemarle, N. C. He is a sophomore.

That gives Knotts one more year and Marshall two to harry the foes of the tobacco school.

And harry they will if their performances against Tennessee Saturday are any measuring stick. Each started and played himself practically a 60-minute ball game. And they are main reasons why the Vols never got much satisfaction through the middle of the Duke line.

They both charge low and with a sureness that automatically finds them somewhere amongst the opposition backs before those opposition backs can get comfortably started.

Scouts from future Duke opponent schools made themselves copious notes about the pair and chiefly among them were notations of how little ground the Vols got through the middle.

It was in 1945 that Marshall became the first freshman ever to win a starting berth in a Duke line. He played tackle then. Last year he was moved to guard but played out most of the season with the junior varsity. But not this season. He's up there to stay.

Knotts started out with the jayvees last season but soon moved to the varsity where he played out the latter part of the season. He has improved greatly and Coach Wallace Wade singled him out with pride following the Tennessee game and announced that he'll be there when the Blue Devils find the going rough.

for everything that belongs to a ball game from corner lots to the big league. The Yanks and Dodgers overlooked nothing and they brought in many, many things that Abner Doubleday had never even dreamed of.

But it remained for the Yankee half of the sixth inning to give the record crowd its all-time thrill. At that moment the Yankees were trailing by three runs. Hatten, replacing Branca, walked Stirnweis and Berra singled with two out.

Joe DiMaggio, the killer, was up. Di Mag waited and caught the one he liked. You can still hear the crash of his bat against the ball. The ball was on its way to a home run, traveling deep through the coming twilight into the stands.

But at this point Al Gionfriddo, the speed star that Brooklyn got from the Pirates, was also on his way. The fastest man on the field rushed to the outlying wall, 415 feet away. Gionfriddo went into the air and speared the ball with one hand, possibly the greatest catch ever made in any World Series game since the Red Sox whipped the Pirates back in 1903.

This was the miracle catch that saved the day and kept the scrappy Dodgers in front.

Gionfriddo's catch killed a DiMaggio homer, with two on at the time, but the melodramatic thrills of this sixth game carried on to the finish.

The Yankees called on Pitchers Reynolds, Drews, Page, Newsom, Raschi and Wensloff. Bucky Harris rushed 22 Yankees into action. The Dodgers had used Lombardi, Branca, Hatten, and then Casey.

It was Casey, Mighty Casey, who came to the rescue for the Dodgers third victory and his fifth relief chore in six games. His tavern floor had been swept clean and he was ready for the night's business. But in the ninth Johnson singled and McQuinn walked.

By this time there was a huddle among baseball's rulers, Chandler, Frick and Harridge. For night was falling fast.

Then Robinson singled and the score was 8 to 6 with two Yanks still on base. There were two on and two out when Casey retired Stirnweis, one of the stars of the series.

In one way or another, the Dodgers had fought their way into a 3-3 series tie. Burt Shotton had still been unable to produce a pitcher who could last more than four innings. He had called almost daily on Branca, Hatten, Lombardi, Gregg, Behrman, Taylor, Barney and Casey. Always, it seemed, Casey. One by one they came up to have their brains knocked out. Gregg and Casey being the only exceptions.

So here they were, all knotted and snarled up with three victories each and the championship showing on Monday's seventh contest in a series that has broken almost every known record for heart-breaking excitement, for wild and woolly pitching, for descents into cornier depths of skill.

But the 1947 series stands today as the best of them all as far as the fan is concerned.

'Had To Get It,' Says Gionfriddo Of DiMaggio's Homer-Labelled Blow

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—They all pointed to the littlest Dodger of them all and said: "Talk to him—he's the one who won it for us."

And "Quarter-Pint" Al Gionfriddo, of Cresson, Pa., who just barely would make five-foot-six in elevator shoes, said: "I guess it was just a case of one Italian stealing from another."

He was talking about his catch that robbed Joe DiMaggio, of the Yankees, of a three-run homer in the sixth inning, chopping off a rally that enabled Brooklyn to win, 8 to 6, and send the World Series into a pay-off seventh game tomorrow.

It was a catch that his fellow fielder, Dixie Walker, described with justifiable emotion and perhaps exaggeration as "the greatest one ever made in Yankee Stadium."

Gionfriddo reached over his shoulder after running approximately 100 feet and snagged the ball just as it was about to complete its downward arc into the bullpen.

"With DiMaggio batting, I knew when he hit it that it probably would be a home run," Gionfriddo said. "So I just started running because I knew I had to get it. Bobby Bragan, who was in the bullpen, said it would have fallen in for a homer. That's all I know, boys, and don't ask me if I went to church this morning."

Little Al said "this was a big thrill, but I guess I got a bigger one when I came to the Dodgers from Pittsburgh in the Kirby Higbe deal."

Several baseball writers who had covered the Dodgers during the season agreed that if Gionfriddo hadn't gone into left field in the sixth inning—following Ed Miksis and Gene Hermanski into that garden—the catch never would have been made, and the game would have been lost. Gionfriddo is much faster than either of his predecessors.

Dodger Manager Burt Shotton, more talkative than at any time since the series began, said that he thought it would have been a good idea if they had turned the lights on, "as long as we're playing three-hour ball games."

A scribe pointed out that there were regular season rules against lights going on in a day game and Shotton replied:

"Sure, but they could turn the lights on in a World Series. This is not the regular season, you A. Robinson, c 4 1 2 2 0 0."

Asked about his pitchers, he had the usual vague reply, stating that "it could be any one of 10 of them, who warms up right."

Previously in the Series he had said that he might use any pitcher for the next day who hadn't worked in the bull pen during the game. It was pointed out that Hal Gregg had not been out there and Shotton added that there were more than Gregg who weren't out there.

"Two of the boys, Ralph Branca and Vic Lombardi have asked me if they can work tomorrow," he added.

Eddie Stankey, cooled down a little after the heat of battle was off, still insisted that First Base Umpire Ed Rommel never called Vogt Berra's ground single to right either fair or foul in the fourth inning until after Plate Umpire Babe Pinelli called it foul.

"When I ran to Pinelli, he said to Rommel, it's Rommel's play," Stankey said. "Rommel insisted it was fair and I guess if Second Base Umpire Larry Goetz hadn't calmed me down I would have been out of the ball game."

DiMaggio was the only downhearted Yankee. The others were quiet but still confident.

"I thought I had a homer, that's all I can say," said Joe.

BUGS-EYE VIEW OF THE SERIES

Casey Gets an Assist; Catch Unbelievable

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

YANKEE STADIUM, Oct. 5—(INS)—The fabulous Casey showed up again for the incredible Bums Sunday and you know the answer. In the books you have read how the British soldiers fired and died.

They couldn't give Casey this win but he gets an assist on the game and a first mortgage on Flatbush. This Series will go down in history as the Civil War on Baseball.

That Casey man is like a violin player in a Hungarian restaurant. He goes with the dinner.

The seventh game will be played in the Yankee Stadium. It will not be the deciding contest, for this Series will be played all Winter long.

I saw more kinds of baseball in the sixth game than you could shake a rule book at. Fielders ran like rabbits and grabbed like wolves. Pitchers threw good and pitchers threw bad.

The Dodgers got to Reynolds like a lobbyist to a crooked Senator. But if there are any heroes in the game, it is Bragan and Gionfriddo. Bragan is the gift of the GI Bill of Rights and Gionfriddo just drove up on foot.

One delivered a great wallop while the other made a catch that I saw and do not believe. Neither does Ripley.

"Probably the feature of the game was the flop of Joe Page as a relief pitcher. Joe thought he was meeting his good old Brooklyn cousins. But this time they mixed him a paperhanger's cocktail. They gave Joe a good pasting."

BEVENS VS. GREGG IN FINAL GAME OF SERIES TODAY

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 5—(INS)—Bill Bevens, of the Yankees, and Hal Gregg, of the Dodgers, will square off against each other on the pitching mound Monday in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

Bevens, the right-hander who pitched a one-hitter and lost to the Dodgers 3-2 in the fourth game Friday when Cookie Lavagetto hit a pinch double in the ninth, will be coming back after only two days' rest.

Gregg, also a right-hander, has appeared only in relief roles. He was in the second game for two innings and in the fourth game Friday for six innings when Bevens lost his one-hitter.

Vols Seem To Miss Some Cogs

By GEORGE TISINGER

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 5—That character who is one of the most rabid of his kind, the Alumnus Tennesseean, whether of the sidewalk variety or otherwise, awoke Sunday morning after convincing himself and cohorts that the Vols this year are missing some cogs somewhere.

He tells himself that the team on the Hill has plenty of material, a bunch of big, tough fellows who should be able to mow the opposition down with ease. Yet they haven't. And the Vols have lost three in a row now, including their Orange Bowl game last Jan. 1 against Rice, their opener against Georgia Tech, and their second regular season session against Wallace Wade's Duke.

At first Alumnus Tennesseean tried to tell himself that it was T-formation teams who were beating his boys. He said the general had let the T teams get the jump on him during the war years and that sooner or later Neyland would devise an adequate defense that would cure everything.

But the thing that worried him most Saturday night as he sat over his ginger beer was that he had seen a Duke team smack the Vols around with the same single-wing style that the Vols themselves use. Only major difference was that the Duke team was in pads and forward while the Vols were in an unbalanced line.

Old Alumnus had attended practice sessions on Shields-Watkins Field following the Tech debacle and had heard the boys in pads admit to themselves that when the Jackets of Bobby Dodd ran the T at them they not only couldn't stop it but they didn't know where the ball was.

But on at least one play in the straight, plowing football played Saturday night in the Duke game, they didn't know where the ball was, either.

TRICK PLAY FOOLS VOLS It was on the only really trick play of the game and resulted in a surprisingly easy score for the Blue Devils. On a play on the occasion Buddy Mulligan sped 37 yards or his touchdown. On first down Bob Frye took the snap from center, lowered his head and started off on what appeared to be a normal line buck at the right end. However, he cut back and slipped the ball to Mr. Mulligan, who was standing innocently with his back to the center.

Decatur Eleven Fools Experts With Four Wins, 203 Points

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Freshmen football players seldom steal the spotlight from their more experienced brothers. The same goes for freshmen coaches, but one has taken over the lead-dog role in the fast NGIC this outing.

Decatur Boys High, winner of the Conference championship for the last two years under Lewis Woodruff, was counted out of the title picture this year in all pre-season predictions presumably because Charlie Waller had little experience in the coaching field.

He and his Bulldogs have fooled them all, being the early season sensations with four straight top-heavy victories. Fulton, 49-0; Russell was routed, 51-7; Spalding was belted, 67-0; and Murphy took it on the chin, 40-0.

That gives the suburban Bulldogs 203 points to seven for four foes. They have amassed a scoring average of just one point under 51 per outing, and only Johnson, of Russell, has violated the virginity of the Decatur double stripes.

Waller gives all the credit to his boys, saying that he just has some fine players who can "go." "We haven't tried to run up any large scores," he grins. "My second team has as much playing time as the varsity, and the third stringers have been in there almost as much."

Twelve Decatur players have figured in the Bulldog's touchdown parade. Lawrence Thompson leads with 49 counters. Jim Umbricht, a sub, has three touchdowns and 16 extra points for 34 points. Don Rogers has 30, Jim Harper 24, Pete Johnson 18, Don Anderson 12. Those scoring one TD each are Tommy (Butch) Dowman, Jack Fligg, Tom Choyce, David (Tex) Vaughn, Norman Stone and Courts Redford.

MOOSE IS GONE
"Folks counted us out because Frank Miller had finished his high school career, I imagine," Waller opines, "and runners like the 'Moose' come along only every 15 years or so, it's true. But we have a lot of boys who are very good and we have better balance than last year."

Don Rogers, trimmed down to 175 pounds, has been moved from fullback to fill Moose's shoes at left half. We knew he was good, but he has exceeded even my fondest expectations so far. He is a very hard runner."

Waller considers Courts Redford, who has completed about 50 percent of his passes this year, a better T quarterback than Auburn's Lambeth, Decatur 1946 Deadeye Dick who made All-NGIC.

He also has the highest praise for Lawrence Thompson, who has gained most of his fame as perhaps the best high school baseball pitcher in the State for Boys High. The big fellow can really lug that football as his 49 points indicate. He also is a talented left-handed passer and left-footed kicker.

Jim Umbricht, who has been going great as a sub at both quarterback and end, also is better than the boys who were so good they "fooled their own coach" have a rocky road ahead with all the tough ones still to play—North Fulton, Gainesville, Cartersville, Griffin, West Fulton and Cedar-town—but so far they have been unexpectedly brilliant.

This is strictly Charlie Waller's first year as a head coach, having served as Woodruff's assistant last year after tutoring Navy teams at the Norfolk training base while he was in service.

Charlie went one year to Middle Georgia Junior College, at Cochran, and three years to Oglethorpe from where he was graduated in 1942. The native of Griffin, despite his small size, won a medal as the best blocker the Stormy Petrels had in 1941. The halfback even was used as a guard in several games. Charlie also performed at second base and shortstop at the Peachtree Road institution. He spent one year at Georgia in working on his master's degree after getting out of the Navy in 1945 before coming to Decatur to aid Woodruff.

Up to this point Charlie Waller, the freshman, ranks as the coach of the year.

Tech Fumbling, Kicking Displeases Bobby Dodd

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY

Constitution Sports Editor

It was a little surprising that Coach Bobby Dodd was so displeased with the way his Georgia Tech football team played in lambasting Tulane, 20-0, Saturday.

It was surprising because after ten minutes of the contest, not one of the 50,000 spectators would have given you one of those old cigarette coupons for the chances of the Green Wave.

Tech's play was just that convincing despite a series of fumbles which merely delayed and, on a couple of occasions, prevented touchdowns.

But Mr. Dodd wasn't pleased, and said as much.

TOO MUCH FUMBLING
"There were three things wrong," he argued. "In the first place, you'll never beat a good team fumbling as much as we did. Imagine, losing the ball six times by just dropping it."

"Secondly, our kicking was terrible. Why Still Quarterback Jim Still averaged only 29 yards on his punts while against Tennessee it was closer to 40. That's another thing which will beat you against a good team. Of course, there is some excuse for it because Still has an injured kicking foot. We'll just have to turn it over to somebody else until it heals completely."

"And finally, we coaches played the worst game of our lives. I mean what we told our quarterbacks to use was all wrong. We would tell Still to run wide when all the time Tulane was playing a loose six-man line, which is ideal for quick-opening plays in the middle. Why, look what Ziegler (Fullback Frank Ziegler) did every time he tried it."

However, Dodd's arguments didn't convince everybody, including the Tulane players. After the game, Evell Pope, Tech guard, was taken into the Wave training room for some stitches on a cut on his face.

About 20 of the Tulane players came by to shake his hand and wish Tech luck. The gist of their remarks to him was: "We were lucky."

Tech coaches are worrying about their tackle situation at present. Both second stringers, Dan Bradach and Tom Coleman, were hurt and are out for at least the VMI game Saturday at Grant Field. That leaves it up to Ralph Slaten and Bob Davis, who are quite adequate, to say the least. But coaches would like to afford them as much rest as possible before tackling the tough last half of their schedule.

Dinky Bowen also is injured. He suffered a pulled knee ligament. He was flown back to Atlanta, accompanied by Trainer Dick Jones, for treatment. He will not see action this week but should be back in time for the Auburn game Saturday after next.

Ram Halfback Has Broken Leg

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5 — (AP)—Steve Bagarus, halfback of the Los Angeles Rams, suffered a broken leg in the Rams-Green Bay Packers National Football League game Sunday and will be out for the rest of the season. The leg was fractured above the knee when Bagarus was tackled by two Packers. Coach Bob Snyder of the Rams said Bagarus would be unable to return this season.

Man-o'-War's Faithful Groom and Pal Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5—(AP)—Will Harbut, 62, the loyal Negro groom who convinced thousands of visitors to Faraway Farm that Man o' War was "the mostest hoss in the world," died Friday night at his small home close by the paddocks where he kept an ever-watchful eye on "Big Red" for 17 years.

If Man O'War could have returned the compliment, undoubtedly Harbut would have been just as stoutly proclaimed "the Mostest Groom in the world." Horse and man were almost inseparable during their association. They anticipated each other's wants and commands.

Harbut's loyalty was almost matched by his wit and enthusiasm concerning his proud charge. "He still thinks he's a boy," he would chuckle when the aging thoroughbred overdid his exercises. And when Big Red was reluctant to leave his paddock, Harbut would explain: "He don't want to leave the girls," pointing to fillies in another paddock.

About all of 'em that come out now want to know when Red's gonna die," the groom said on Man O'War's twentieth birthday. "They ask me like I ought to know. I just tell 'em, 'you tell me when you're gonna die and I'll tell you when Red's gonna die.'"

"You can see he's all right now. He's not lazy and he's not cross like most things get when they get old."

Harbut extolled Man O'War with a memorized speech. "You're looking at the mostest hoss of them all. Yessir, this is Man O'War. Stands 16 and one-half hands high, weighs 1,375 pounds, just 300 pounds more than his racing weight. He was foaled March 29, 1917. He won nine races out of ten when he was two years old and 11 out of 11 races when he was three years old.

"He's a Kentucky hoss but he never run on a Kentucky track. He won the Preakness and the Belmont but he never run in the Kentucky Derby like most people think he did. He won $249,463 when stakes were small."

"There has been lots of great hosses but there's been just one Man O'War. He was a great racer and a great sire. Yessir, this is Big Red."

"MUST HAVE A LOT OF HEART"

Wally Butts Knows His Bulldogs Don't Have That Kind of Ability

By F. M. WILLIAMS

"They must have a lot of heart."

That's the way Wallace Butts summed up his Georgia Bulldogs watching it come from the depths of humiliating defeat to LSU, 35-19.

"Lord knows they don't have that kind of ability," Wally smiled. "But as long as they have the heart they can cover up for a lot of that deficiency."

"It takes a bunch of fighters to just give a ball game away, like we did Saturday, and then come back to win it," the Little Round Man declared. He didn't say it, but he hinted broadly that boys with less heart than his Bulldogs would have folded like an accordion after LSU got two touchdowns in the first six minutes.

CREDIT FOR RAUCH

Wally said he thought Stan Nestorak and Floyd (Breezy) Reid were the sparkplugs, but he hastened to give ample credit to John Rauch, his "T" formation quarterback, who finally hit his 1946 form after a couple of bad games.

"You know about that Rauch," Coach Butts drawled. "He hasn't had a lot to work with in that backfield and that may be why he hasn't been as good as we thought he'd be. He's had to depend on boys with no experience and that's discouraging sometimes."

The Bulldog mentor illustrated just how much of a strain his quarterback has been laboring under.

"Before the game Saturday I noticed John was throwing very badly. I had to go over and tell him to settle down because we couldn't stand to lose this one."

PROUD OF EFFORT

"I was kind of proud of the way

he came through under that kind of pressure," he said.

Georgia's end play was great, Coach Butts thought, especially that of Weyman Sellers, whose defense was a thorn in the Tiger side all afternoon.

But other than Sellers and Captain Dan Edwards, who scored two touchdowns, he wouldn't pick out a lineman for particular praise.

"I thought they all played pretty well and the tackling was sharp. But I didn't think any of them stood out above the other."

WILL BE IN AND OUT

Wally disagrees with those who say his team "has arrived."

"We'll be in and out the rest of the season simply because we don't have the experience to be consistent," he declared.

The Bulldogs face a tough assignment Saturday in the Kentucky Wildcats at Lexington.

Butts is afraid he can't keep his team keyed mentally for three weeks in a row and he is the first to say the Bulldogs were really ready for a good game against North Carolina and LSU.

Ole Miss, Vandy Take Spotlight

By CHICK BOSCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Mississippi and Vanderbilt, two of the Southeastern Conference's surprise eleven this far, hold the spotlight this week as they prepare for a slam-bang meeting at Nashville.

The game, pitting two of the league's clubs which in preseason predictions were rated in the third foursome with Florida and Auburn, finds them among the loop's three unbeaten teams. The tilt shapes up as a battle featuring a loose-offense on the part of the Mississippians and a tight defense on the part of the Commodores.

The Rebels, with victories over Kentucky, Florida and South Carolina, have defeated the Commodores only three times in 24 games with the first victory coming in 1939. Vanderbilt, which turned in a surprise 3-0 win over Northwestern to open the season, added a bigger upset Saturday in dumping Alabama, 14-7. The Rebels were downing the Carolina team, 33-0, with comparative ease.

Two other conference games are on tap, Georgia at Kentucky in a night contest, and Florida versus Auburn at Montgomery. Tulane, downed by Georgia Tech, 20-0, meets Rice at Houston; Louisiana State, surprised by Georgia, 35-19, is host to Texas A. & M. in a night game, and Georgia Tech, the other unbeaten club, meets V. M. I. here.

Alabama, in the unique position of having one victory in three games, is host to Duquesne; Mississippi State, upset 7-0 by Michigan State, goes to the West Coast to meet San Francisco, and Tennessee, beaten by an underdog Duke eleven, 19-7, is host to Chattanooga.

The Auburn-Florida game also holds considerable interest as a contest featuring rivalry and the possibility that the latter club will break a 12-game losing streak.

Alpharetta Raps Stone Mountain, 12-2

In a North Atlanta League playoff game at Alpharetta Sunday, Alpharetta defeated the Stone Mountain nine, 12-2, behind the six-hit hurling of Sam Crysler. Coleman, with five for six, and Stephens, with 4 for 5, including a home run, topped the winners, while Spain and Hairston, with two for four each, were best for Stone Mountain.

Alpharetta's Charles Upshaw hurled three-hit ball Saturday to defeat Lathamtown, 4-1, at Lathamtown, and give the winners three straight games to win the Rucker League Playoff.

Kent Roberts, with 3 for 5, and Howard Estes, with 2-4, including a triple, led the winners.

AZA 518 Triumphs

The AZA 518 softball team took their third straight game from AZA 134, 13-5, at Piedmont Park Sunday to take leadership of the JEA Class A League.

Everybody is asking

"Why can't I get more Budweiser?"

IT'S COMING!

Time and again we have enlarged the world's largest brewery. The present expansion program is the largest ever. But we can't ship you these additional trainloads of Budweiser without expanding our present network of railroad trackage. Supplying your demand for Budweiser has required us to build private railroad yards bigger than the terminal facilities of many major cities.

Although we are producing and shipping more Budweiser than ever before, it is scarce because more people are demanding it than ever before. They demand it because every drop of Budweiser contains the quality that over the years has made it the most popular beer in history.

Meanwhile, we are distributing Budweiser equitably to thousands of dealers throughout America. It seems that people no longer ask for beer...they ask for Budweiser.

Rob-Ride, Assault Top Weekend of Crime Here

Serious crime in Atlanta over the weekend was topped off early Sunday by a robbery and an attempted assault, both in the heart of the downtown business district, police records show.

Det. Sgt. Glyn Cowan and Det. Leo Nahlik said two men forced their way at gun point into an automobile driven by Merle D. Bridges, of 1730 Derry Ave. S. W., at a stop light on Spring Street at Carnegie Way.

One bandit held a gun on Bridges while the other drove to a lonely dirt road leading off the Birmingham Highway, near the Chattahoochee River Bridge. There the bandits robbed Bridges of $50 and put him out of the car.

En route to the scene of the robbery Bridges said the bandits told him they needed the automobile to use in "pulling another job." He also said the robbers warned him that "something would happen" to his family if he called police within 45 minutes after they drove away in his car.

Bridges described one of the men as medium-sized, wearing a dark jacket and a dark hat. He said the other was tall and slender. His automobile was a 1942 Chevrolet sedan, dark gray, bearing Georgia license No. EX-49757.

A short time before this report, Patrolman O. L. Kilpatrick said a 29-year-old woman returning from the Southeastern Fair was set upon and beaten with a pistol by a Negro man in virtually the same section of Atlanta.

The woman and a companion had ridden a street car to Marietta Street and were walking along Baker Street, near Ivy, looking for a taxi cab when a Negro man armed with a pistol stepped suddenly from a doorway, Kilpatrick said.

The companion fled as the Negro started beating the young woman in the face with the pistol, the patrolman said. Passersby were attracted to the scene by screams of the victim and the assailant fled. The woman was treated at Grady Hospital for severe bruises, one inflicted in the right eye.

The Georgian killed in the Tennessee accident Sunday was E. C. Miller, 60, a Southern Railway engineer, of Fairburn. He died when his automobile collided with a loaded bus near Monticello, Tenn. Two companions, Grover W. Northcutt, of Riverdale, and Charlie E. Stevens, of Fairburn, were injured. No one on the bus was injured.

The other accidents were widely scattered over the State. No fatalities occurred in Atlanta, Fulton or DeKalb Counties.

William J. Gibson, 32, of Rabun Gap, was killed when the pickup truck he was driving collided head-on with an automobile driven by Robert E. Garland, also of Rabun Gap, near the city limits of Clayton, Patrol Sgt. Cuba Heath reported.

A passenger in the truck, Loyal V. Partain, 28, of Rabun Gap, was admitted to a hospital in Franklin, N. C., and is not expected to recover, Sgt. Heath said. Garland was not injured.

Walter Eugene Cooper, 19, of Rupert, was killed nine miles north of Butler, when the car he was driving plunged from the road and overturned several times. Dan Hill, 19, also from Rupert, a passenger, was admitted to the Butler Hospital in critical condition. Troopers C. K. Pittard and R. J. McNeil reported.

Frederick M. Cooper, of Rupert, a cousin of the dead youth and the third passenger in the auto, was not seriously injured.

Charles J. Fowers, 17, was killed and Carl Garrett, 25, was seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding struck a telephone pole near their home at Royston.

James E. Trice, 27, of Pare Lake, was killed when his car collided head-on Saturday with a car driven by Ed Conkle, of Morrow, on Highway 54 near Morrow. Conkle was unhurt, the State Patrol reported.

Thirteen persons also were injured in a collision between a tractor-trailer near Lavonia, with 10 persons riding in the trailer, and another machine, the State Patrol reported. None was injured seriously.

At Rome, Joseph Lee MacMillan, Jr., former Atlantan, died of injuries received in an accident there Friday. Troopers said MacMillan's truck collided with a passenger car, apparently after he was blinded by approaching headlights.

C. H. Donaldson, of Cairo, was killed when his wagon was struck by an auto driven by Jackson W. Stuckey, of Whigham, State Patrol Headquarters in Atlanta reported. Five persons were injured in automobile crashes in Atlanta, none critically.

school at Los Angeles City College.

"I'm so happy that I'm going to take a long trip," he said. His mother, Mrs. Joseph Stomel, had had his car ready to go at a minute's notice.

Overell, a wealthy financier, and his wife died aboard their yacht the Mary E in Newport Harbor March 19. The state charged that Gollum bludgeoned them to death, then set off a charge of dynamite with an alarm clock, sinking the yacht and hiding the crime. He and Beulah were eating hamburgers on shore at the time of the explosion.

But the jurors accepted the defense contention that Overell set off the blast himself, either accidentally or in a suicide plan.

The girl, by the acquittal verdict of a 10-week trial, becomes the heiress to a half-million-dollar fortune willed to her by her parents. Under California law, she would have lost the fortune if convicted.

Miss Overell refused to have her picture taken with Gollum, and she turned her back to him when photographers tried to snap shots.

One of the jurors, Mrs. Yvonne Wagner, said that Mrs. John Fisher was the lone woman who voted against the majority so long.

Judge Kenneth Morrison said he was "glad the thing is over and I thank the Lord I don't have to worry about it any more night after night." He said he thought the verdict was fair.

"I realize now that I was wrong at first," Mrs. Fisher, wife of a retired Anaheim contractor, said after the verdict of the six women and six men was read. She had held out for conviction for two days.

The two alternate jurors, Lee A. Welsh, Fullerton citrus grower, and Mrs. Esther Kemper, wife of an Anaheim orange grower, said they "agreed wholeheartedly with the verdict and would have voted the same way."

Four ballots were taken during the deliberations. On the first ballot, the jurors were seven to five in favor of acquittal. On two subsequent ballots, they stood 11 to 1, and on the final, the vote was unanimous.

"You can't find words in the dictionary to define my feeling now," Mrs. Wilhelmina Stomel, Gollum's mother, said. "I don't know what Bud's going to do but it's all right with me. The world is his now."

One of the jurors, Mrs. Deryth Ellison, said she voted for acquittal because "there were so many things the prosecution did not prove."

"There were three broken links in the chain of evidence which won my vote," said Juror Thomas E. Enyorth.

Several of the women jurors embraced Miss Overell when they had their pictures taken with the defendants. Gollum replied, "Oh, thank you very much," in reply to Mrs. Wagner's congratulations.

"There was no one predominant reason for our acquitting them," said Jury Foreman J. A. Porter. "It was just the little elements of doubt all the way through."

One of the jurors, Mrs. Hazel Bean, a Fullerton flower grower, during the deliberations knitted a baby jacket for the son of Henry A. Dietz, assistant prosecutor. The son was born during the fourteenth week of the trial.

"This is the finest jury I've ever had the honor of presiding over," commented Judge Morrison, just before discharging them.

"The jury has decided the case and that is all there is to it," Special Prosecutor Eugene Williams, who had assisted in prosecution of war criminal trials in Tokyo, said after the verdict.

Java Oil Fields Escape War Blow, U. S. Probers Find

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 5.—(AP)—American military observers who toured the oil fields here reported Sunday that the Royal Dutch Shell Oil Company's Tjepoe oil field and refinery, where the Dutch had reported extensive fires several weeks ago, are intact, and working.

The oil field is the most important in Java. The Americans said the fires were merely the disposal of waste by-products and that the Indonesians were maintaining production.

American observers flew back to Batavia from Jogjakarta, Semarang, and Soerabaya to begin drafting a preliminary report on violations of the United Nations' Security Council's cease-fire orders in the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

Leaves of the report will go to the UN consular mission directed to investigate the violations and to Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo.

COMMUNISTS

category such European leaders as Prime Minister Attlee of Britain, Premier Paul Ramadier and Socialist Leader Leon Blum of France and Dr. Kurt Schumacher, leader of the German Communist Party in Germany.

They were assailed as "traitors to the working class."

The chief danger for the working class, said the resolution, was undervaluing its own strength and overestimating the strength of the "imperialist" camp. It scoffed at the idea that there would be another war, asserting that the strength of the factions opposing a new conflict were so great "the aggressors' plans will fail completely."

The Russian delegation to the Polish meeting was made up of Col. Gen. Andre Zhdanov and Georgi M. Malenkov, of the Politburo (the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the All-Union Communist Party).

Zhdanov was the Communist who signed the resolution in Moscow in May, 1943, calling for dissolution of the Comintern, the international organization founded in 1919 by Lenin to organize the working-class parties of the world.

Dissolution of the Comintern was hailed by many Allied leaders as heralding greater co-operation between Russia and the Western world. Premier Stalin declared the move would clear the way for organization of a common front of nations based upon their equality.

The other participants in the Polish conference included: France, Jacques Duclos, Secretary of the powerful French Communist Party, and Etienne Rajon; Italy, Luigi Longo and Eugenio Reale;

Romania, Anna Pauker and Gheorgiu Dej; Poland, Vice Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka and Minister of Industry Henryk Myski;

Yugoslavia, Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj and Milovan Djilas; Bulgaria, V. Tchernenkoff and V. Poptomov;

Hungary, M. Farkache and J. Reval; Czechoslovakia, R. Slanski and S. Bastovanski;

Duclos and Anna Pauker, 51-year-old pacifist and Communist, also signed the resolution for dissolution of the Comintern.

The new International Bureau in Belgrade was given broad functions. It was assigned the tasks of "exchanging experiences," and if necessary to "co-ordinate the activities of the Communist parties on a basis of mutual agreement."

Represented on the Bureau will be the countries which attended the conference in Poland. Communist parties from the United States or other Western Hemisphere countries were not mentioned.

The resolution said that voluntary co-ordination of activities through the Bureau was called for as a result of the "new international situation," and said "lack of liaison among the parties in the nine countries could lead to 'losses for the working class.'"

It said the United States was responsible for splitting the world. The Marshall Plan and Truman Doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey were declared to be tools of the United States in a campaign for world leadership. The United States Government was described as being in the hands of imperialists whose aim was to enslave the world.

The chief task of the Communist parties was held to be "defense of national sovereignty of their peoples against United States aggression."

The nine-nation conference declared that the asserted plans of the United States for world domination could not succeed if Europe's Communist parties stood strongly at the head of all national elements defending national sovereignty and independence of their respective nations.

The conference declared the desires of imperialists to provoke a new war and the possibility of organizing such a war there is a long gap," said the declaration. "The peoples of the world do not want war."

"The strength and forces standing for peace are so important and great that if they are firm and strong in the defense of peace, and if they show patience and firmness the aggressors' plan will completely fail."

India States To Cost Many Dead

NEW DELHI, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Master Tara Singh, leader of the Akali Sikhs, predicted Sunday a death total of 1,000,000 persons as a result of past and future communal disorders incident to the setting up of the dominions of India and Pakistan. He said he did not expect order to be fully restored for another three months.

The Indian Government disclosed nearly 900,000 Moslem refugees were encamped in five districts of India's East Punjab awaiting transit through Amritsar, sacred city of the Sikhs, to Pakistan.

Tara Singh said he expected deaths from killings, epidemics, starvation and exhaustion to total 500,000 for the Hindus and Sikhs and an equal number for the Moslems.

The Sikh leader condemned what he said was the policy of both Mohandas K. Gandhi and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Government in inducing Moslems to remain in the East Punjab and in Delhi.

An Indian Government press release said the Sikhs were forming volunteer squads to insure protection of the Moslems when they pass through Amritsar en route to Pakistan, only 20 miles away.

The press release said there had been no attacks on Moslem refugee convoys during the past six days and that the Indian Government had appointed a special police staff to investigate cases of recent refugee train holdups in the East Punjab.

reduce the amount of grain fed by farmers to livestock.

Marshall said the government will immediately begin preparing and distributing recipes to save money, wheat and meat.

"The nation's brewers will be asked to make a greater cut in grain usage than they proposed."

The Presidential appeal—prepared for broadcast on the four national networks and for the first time transmitted by television from the White House—was reinforced by urgent messages from Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Secretary of Commerce Harriman.

Marshall said that "food is a vital factor in our foreign policy" and can prevent a threatened "European collapse," which he said in turn could damage America.

He asked that all citizens "tighten our belts—clean our plates—push ourselves away from the table."

The Western European countries, said Anderson, are victims of a "combination of bad circumstances almost without parallel in farming history. Food is the cornerstone of their reconstruction. And we can—we will—supply it."

Said Harriman: "Even more than our natural sympathy is involved in this great appeal. Our peace and our prosperity—our very system of free life—are at stake."

NATURE ON THE LOOSE
Devastation caused by the hurricane in Bay St. Louis, photographed from the second-floor telephone office across the street. In this telephone office, operators stuck to their posts while windows in the building crashed in, water flooded the streets and giant waves demolished two buildings before their eyes.

The Recent Hurricane Demonstrates Again Southern Bell's Ever-Readiness to Serve You ... Come Storm or Fire, Hail or High Water
With the first warning of the approaching hurricane along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, all Southern Bell personnel in the Southeastern states was alerted for action. Orders for equipment were rushed to the Western Electric Company. Emergency crews from adjoining states poured into the threatened area by truck, plane and train. Every effort was concentrated on getting skilled men and materials there ahead of the hurricane.
When the full fury of the storm struck, operators stuck to their posts hour after hour... maintaining communications throughout most of the storm-lashed section... helping to save lives and avert injuries, to ease anxious hearts and minds and to bring a feeling of calm and comfort to those waiting out the wind. Typical of this devotion to duty were the two lone operators in a telephone office in Bay St. Louis, who stayed at their switchboard until the last lines went out—then prayed.
As soon as the storm abated, emergency crews went to work repairing a damage to telephone facilities that ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars and totalled more than 106,000 breaks in service. Skilled repairmen worked around the clock—wading through miles of swamps and marshes—battling wind, water—even snakes. It was a tremendous job. Yet within a few days after the wind blew itself out, more than 90% of the telephone service in areas affected by the hurricane was back to normal.
Fortunately, hurricanes don't happen every day. But it's good to know that whenever and whatever the emergency, you can count on telephone folks to deliver that extra measure of power in a pinch. It's this tradition of service that gives a value to your telephone that cannot be measured by the price you pay.

Georgia... A Force In America's Future Through Medicine

Emergency in the night! Scream of siren through the dark—whirr of elevators—whish of rubber-tires along corridors—the pungent, antiseptic smell of the operating room . . .

Emergency in the night! Shrill of telephone bell—roar of motor along quiet highway—wind rushing by, urgency in its whistle—then a house, ablaze with unaccustomed light, where anxiety waits with hushed expectancy . . .

Every phase of the doctor's day and night is a life-and-death drama played against a changing background of people and situations.

In 1842, a Georgia doctor brought relief from pain, as Crawford Long first used ether as an anesthetic. In 1933, a Georgia woman founded the annual observance of Doctor's Day throughout the United States.

In 1924, an infantile paralysis patient swam in healing waters rushing warm from Georgia's red clay—and Warm Springs, Georgia, gave birth to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Today, Georgia's men and women of Crawford Long's profession give untiringly of their strength and skill, "for the benefit of the patient," that Georgians might have better life through better health.

Personality to Order
Miss Shores' SpecialtyBy DORIS LOCKERMAN
Woman's News Editor

Atlanta is busting out all over with make-the-most-of-yourself schools. Now we have a Personality Academy. The director is a fragile-featured little Thomasville-Atlanta woman named Arnabelle Shores, who can sweep her gentle violet eyes over your facade courteously and advise you in a wink whether you are feminine, dramatic, wholesome, conservative or executive.

After she has made her analysis, it takes her only a few lessons to teach you how to make-down (newer and smarter than make-up), how to have figure fitness through diet and exercise, and what to do with your upswing or your chignon.

Miss Shores says she herself is proof that a stepped-up change of grooming and personality can change one's whole world. It changed hers.

It was only two years ago that Miss Shores was keeping a neat but prosaic set of books in Atlanta when the dynamic Veronica Dingle paid a visit here. Miss Dingle is known far and wide as a success, mainly as the glamorous author of "Personality, Unlimited."

Miss Dingle appraised Miss Shores with a glance. "Oh, my soul!" she exclaimed. "What have you done to your hair! It's been chopped off. You are a bobtail! Let it grow!" That did it. Arnabelle was so pleased she joined the Dingle troupe, traveled two years on lecture tour, became an instructor with a sharp sense of grooming.

"My face is square," Miss Shores said, running a speculative finger over a sturdy jaw line, "so I fill in my hair behind my cheekbones. I use rouge low on my cheeks, lightly, of course, and choose my hats carefully.

"And you should see my exercising!" Miss Shores has a theory that every woman has time each day to exercise. She once found herself at 2 a. m. going "bump, bump, bump" with her hips against the wall of a hotel bathroom while she turned up her hair. It may have disturbed the other guests but it proved her point that you can exercise almost anywhere.

Miss Shores' salon is in the Studio Arts Building, Eleventh and Peachtree.

Head in Valley, Ideal in Clouds
Rabun Gap-Nacoochee clubwomen know Dr. George C. Bellingrath as a man with his feet solidly set in "The Valley" and his ideals high in the clouds that shadow the school he serves in the mountains.

Bellingrath is President of Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School, in Rabun County, the Upper Little Tennessee River Valley, where his institution has conducted a searching experiment in human improvement in its farm family program. Eighteen families live as student tenants on the land of the school, learning improved agronomy in theory while they practice it with the sweat of their toil.

Bellingrath was in Atlanta this weekend, talking to the zealous local sponsors about their current fund-raising project, the presentation here of Charles Goren, the bridge expert, who arrives today.

He told them: "In a recent session of the Rabun County Grand Jury there were 86 indictments. Only three of them came from the Valley District. It is because we have good churches, good homes, and because our school has concerned itself with its own community for 50 years. We do not educate our people away from their environment. We try to bring their environment up to their education."

ANSWERS TO SUNDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

10 ♠ K 9 8 5 4 ♠ A Q 8 ♠ K 10 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 spade Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—This is the way to show partner that you have a good hand and that you do not intend to be bullied by Mr. East. Such action by you does not necessarily imply a satisfaction with spades as trump. It is a technical way of announcing a good hand.

What, you say, if the redouble is left in? It wouldn't be worried. In the first place it is almost never happens, and in the second place partner might really be able to make seven tricks anyway, which would yield a game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

Q J 8 7 ♠ K 10 7 6 4 ♠ A 10 3 ♠ 5

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

3 hearts Pass Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—This is as good a position for you as anywhere else. Pass. You should resist the impulse to double and be satisfied with a small profit. The reason is that partner might not leave the double in. A double of a three bid is treated very much like a double of a one bid, and you are not anxious to have partner take it out. Think of the complications if he happens to bid clubs.

Q. 3—Opponents are vulnerable, you are not, and as South you hold:

♠ J 9 7 6 4 ♠ 10 7 6 ♠ K 5 ♠ Q 9 8

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 spade Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—Inasmuch as your defensive values are very slight, your prime concern should be with intercepting adverse lines of communication. This may be done by injecting a three spade bid. Partner will understand that this is not intended to show strength. If you had a good hand it would be your place to redouble.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ 5 ♠ 10 8 4 ♠ K Q 1 3 ♠ A Q 10 7 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 heart 1 heart 2 clubs Pass

2 no trump Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—While you have sufficient high card values to warrant a raise to three no trump, nevertheless you should not commit yourself definitely to that final contract without first making some effort to determine whether or not there is a better contract for the hand. The stipulation made here somewhat for the purpose, particularly in view of your doubtful about no trump yet it would not be held response.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 9 ♠ 5 4 ♠ A K 5 ♠ K 7 4 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 diamond Pass 1 heart 1 spade

? What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. This bid serves a multiple purpose. If partner is trying to get to three no trump, this may make it easy. If he is looking the nature of your raise, this will show that you are interested, and if he has then indicated for the hand, this will denote a hand well above minimum requirements. If partner is unable to make a move you are just as well out of the fight, or you should pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 9 ♠ 5 4 ♠ A K 5 ♠ K 7 4 3

Sure We Save USED FAT
on the 20th Century!

Even in the limited space of a train galley, it's a New York Central rule that used fats be saved. Why? Because, folks, our government says every pound of used fats should be saved to help relieve a world shortage that is still critical. Last July, for example, our dining cars and commissaries turned in almost five thousand pounds. And we're keeping at it. So if you're not saving fats as regularly as you used to, won't you get back in the habit? Every drop is still needed!

Orkin Company, With 800 Employees, Serves People of 20 Southern States

By PRESS HUDDLESTON

For 46 years Otto Orkin, who started his exterminating company in Richmond, Va., in 1901, has become widely known throughout the Southeast and Southwest for his effective work in eliminating vermin, particularly rats.

Primarily through the industry and perseverance of Mr. Orkin, the Orkin Exterminating Company has grown from a one-man outfit to a service organization employing more than eight hundred people, with 92 offices and plants operating in 20 States. Mr. Orkin still takes a most active part in the affairs of the Company as its President.

When Mr. Orkin started his exterminating work in Richmond he received considerable newspaper publicity, in which he was referred to as the "Modern Piped Piper." His work, which attracted most attention, was when he executed a contract to rid the Executive Mansion of Virginia of hordes of rats.

Later—in 1924—Mr. Orkin moved the central offices of the Company to Atlanta, occupying offices in the Candler Building. As Mr. Orkin puts it, "I wanted my main offices to be located in the 'Capital' of the South." Since then the Company has expanded by opening branch offices in many States, so that today it is declared to be the largest exterminating company in this country. It has recently moved its headquarters offices into the newly reconstructed and redecorated building at 591 Peachtree St., N. E. The Atlanta exterminating and termite offices, the accounting department and the general warehouse remain at the present location, 590 Courtland St., N. E.

Assisting Mr. Orkin in administering the affairs of this firm are Theodore Oser, Vice President; Herman L. Felton, Technical Director; C. H. Beall, Safety Director; R. L. Tindal, Jr., Georgia Division Manager; and C. L. Young, Assistant Secretary.

Today the Orkin Exterminating Company services the following states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, N. Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, S. Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, W. Virginia.

OTTO ORKIN, head of an exterminating company that serves twenty States, with 92 offices and plants.

Mr. Orkin is particularly proud that many of the finest hotels, restaurants, department stores, mills, homes, theatres and similar institutions in the South are included among the thousands of satisfied customers served by his company.

During the past year Orkin has expanded their services to make available to restaurants, hotels, stores, and similar institutions several new sanitation and fire-preventive services. These include kitchen degreasing, steam cleaning, air-conditioning system cleaning, permanent-type filter sale and cleaning service, and the flame-proofing of fabrics and wood.

After months of experimentation, Orkin is now prepared to offer Georgia a flame-proofing service for both fabrics and wood. All types of fabrics may be flame-proofed, including draperies, beddings, rugs, and upholstered furniture. Orkin's method of flame-proofing wood has been approved by the National Fire Underwriters' Association as well as the American Hotel Association. Both the wood and the fabrics are treated with compounds that are flame-resisting.

Every Orkin job is backed by Orkin's 46 years of experience in the pest control field; and Orkin protects its customers by carrying complete personal and property liability insurance. Offices are located in following Georgia cities: Albany, Athens, Augusta, Brunswick, Columbus, Gainesville, LaGrange, Macon, Rome, Savannah, Thomasville, Toccoa, Valdosta, and Waycross.

Moncrief Furnace Company Advises Replacement of Air Filters

Education and Selling Are Jobs For Harrell & Company of Atlanta

How many persons were killed in accidents over the Labor Day weekend? Do you actually remember the number of persons who died in accidents over the last holiday? There isn't one person in one hundred who can answer that question.

While awaiting news of the recent Florida hurricane, we accepted as a foregone conclusion the injury and death which was bound to result. In the same way we accept the fact that an average of almost 100 persons will die in America each day, solely as the result of automobile accidents.

Evidence of the toll and cost of accident is all about us every day. And still there are persons who just can't believe their names will be among the list of victims. However, states Joe M. Harrell of Harrell & Company, when these people are educated to the fact that accidents are no respecter of persons, and that they may be victims tomorrow or next year, selling insurance is not a problem.

Harrell & Company keeps us up to date on all types of accident coverage. At this time of year there is particular interest in the Student Athletics and Football Accident policies which they offer.

Harrell's new streamlined and simplified group insurance plans give coverage in the life, accident and sickness and hospital field. An important feature to employers is the easy way in which installation, billing and accounting are accomplished.

Located at 165 Spring St., N. W., Harrell & Company offers competent insurance counsel for individuals and business concerns.

Fall Change Necessary Before Starting Furnace

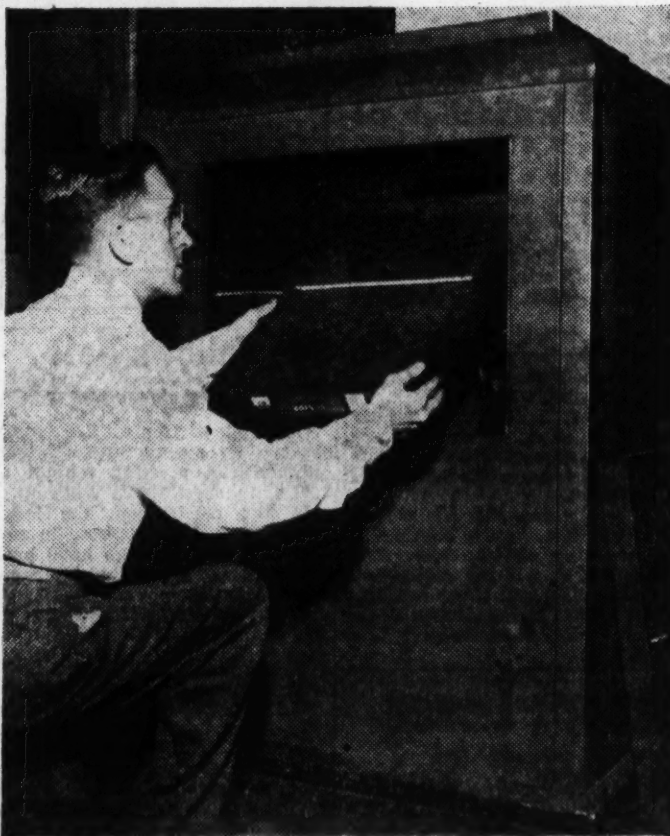

"Early Fall is the best time to replace the air filters in a warm air furnace. These filters perform a very important function and should be replaced before Winter firing begins or as soon thereafter as possible," says Laurence F. Kent, president of Moncrief Furnace Company.

The principal purpose of filters in a furnace is to remove from the air which is circulated throughout the house, all lint, dust, and dust particles which seep into the house and heating system. The removal of such foreign matter cleans and freshens the air you breathe and by so doing provides a more healthful atmosphere in which to live.

"The health factor is, however, only one of the benefits which air filters provide. Equally as important from a heating standpoint is the air the furnace breathes. When the filters in a warm air furnace become clogged with lint and dirt, the heating system frequently becomes sluggish, stings with heat and wasteful of fuel. Forced air furnaces, like humans, need good circulation to operate at peak efficiency," advises Mr. Kent.

Air filters perform another important function which greatly appeals to the housewife... they minimize house cleaning. "It is amazing," says Mr. Kent, "how much cleaner the draperies, walls, and furnishings stay when the circulated air is clean; this fact alone can save lots of work and often substantial savings in redecorating bills."

Speaking of filters, it is almost unbelievable how much dirt they accumulate during an average Winter firing season. This dirt and lint can not be removed as it penetrates through the fibre glass, clogging the filters and destroying their effectiveness. The Moncrief Furnace Company attaches a great deal of importance to the frequent replacement of Furnace Air Filters. We recommend replacing any old or used filter with new DUST STOP

CHANGING FILTERS IN WARM-AIR FURNACE—Shown above is the simple and easy way in which filters can be changed in your warm-air furnace. You can do it yourself or the Moncrief Furnace Company will change them for you. It should be done at least once a year, say officials of the company.

Air Filters which are made by the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation and, in our opinion, are the best obtainable for a forced air furnace. Dust Stop Filters are now available for immediate installation by either the home owners or Moncrief. The filters are easy to install and can be purchased in most sizes for only $1.50. In ordering, home owners are asked to call by Moncrief Furnace Company, 676 Hemphill Ave., N. W., or telephone HE 1281 for filter service.

Lack of Teachers 'Myth', School Official Reveals

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Efforts to conjure a "teacher shortage" crisis in Georgia have failed as miserably as the recent synthetic "textbook crisis," The Constitution has learned.

Assistant State School Supt. J. T. Allman said Sunday the State of Georgia is employing only four less teachers this year than it did last year.

His surprise disclosure, in answer to Constitution questions, came in the face of charges that more than 600 teachers had been stricken from the State payrolls, and an undercover movement to have school superintendents pressure Acting Gov. Thompson into "providing as many teachers in Georgia this year as the State provided last year."

Allman said the State allotted funds to pay 20,318 teachers last year. This year's allotment is for 20,314 teachers.

A check of records in the Department of Education revealed that the number of school superintendents demanding "the same number of teachers as last year" actually are receiving more teachers this year.

Bela Lancaster, of LaGrange, President of the Georgia Education Association, reportedly urged every school superintendent in the State urging that they urge the Acting Governor and the Board of Education to furnish as many teachers this year as they did last year. Lancaster could not be reached for comment. GEAA Sec. Harold Saxton said he knew of no such letters being sent to school people.

Relatively few letters have been received in the Acting Governor's office.

Asked if he considered a crisis existed in the school teacher situation, Allman replied:

"The situation generally is good. There are a few schools needing a teacher allotment from the State. I would like to send more funds to as many as 50 schools if I could. A few schools, who have state funds allotted to them, are having trouble finding teachers to employ. No, I do not consider we have a crisis in the school teacher situation. Few counties actually are in need, and we hope to do something for them."

With virtually the same average daily attendance today as they had 15 years ago, Georgia schools have several hundred more teachers now, reports showed.

The teacher shortage complaints were caused by the federal government reducing two-thirds of its aid in war-congested cities and counties.

While the state is paying virtually the same number teachers as it did last year, it is having to put many of these state-paid teachers in the former war-congested towns to take over the costs formerly borne by the federal government, it was pointed out.

The City of Marietta, where an increased number of children must be educated although the Bell Bomber Plant has closed and federal aid been reduced, is receiving state funds to pay 45 additional teachers this year. The former war-center of Bibb County is getting 63 more state-paid teachers, while nearby Houston County, former ship-building section, is receiving 41 more teachers. Muscogee, home of Fort Benning, is receiving 30 more teachers.

The rising population qualified Fulton County for 24 more teachers and increased Troup County's allotment by 10 more teachers. Some school systems were disappointed when the state, in resuming its obligation formerly financed by the federal government in the war centers, curtailed its liberal spending of state funds in excess of allotments in these non-war center towns, Allman said. For instance, last year one non-war center qualified for 85 teachers, but because the state had some extra funds it allocated them to other schools.

Patrolmen investigating three fires in Atlanta early Sunday booked disorderly conduct cases against two men for smoking in bed.

The most serious fire occurred at the Williams Brothers Lumber Company, 974 Glenwood Ave. S. E., where a lumber shed was destroyed and two trucks damaged. Patrolmen C. N. Wingo and E. T. Jackson said damages were estimated in excess of $1,600.

Patrolmen H. A. Bryan and S. S. West arrested Jimmy Chester, 28, of 94 Eleventh St. N. E., on charges of "disorderly conduct—malicious mischief" after a fire caused slight damage in the apartment he occupied.

A short time later, Patrolmen R. C. West and M. H. Key arrested J. D. Finch, Negro, 35, who lives in the rear of 80 Baker St. N. E. after his mattress caught fire, apparently from a cigarette. Finch was booked for "drunk and disorderly conduct—malicious mischief."
